Pacific Tests Go On

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Monday night the United States will resume its nuclear test series in the atmosphere over the Pacific sometime after Sept. 22.

The announcement came in an AEC-defence department statement saying the restricted area around the Johnston Island test site would be re-established effective Sept. 22.

There was no word from the commission on exactly when tests would be resumed.

But the AEC said "the tests will include a few high-altitude events and a few in which the devices will be dropped from an airplane."

Mounties Watch Marchers

An officer said seven squad cars and 15 members of the RCMP Doukhobor squad are keeping a round-the-clock watch on the refugee-like band of 750 Freedomites.

MORE UNCERTAINTY

Two moves made Monday by leaders of the Freedomite cavalcade added to the uncertainty.

Two carloads of Freedomites headed for Agassiz in the Fraser Valley, apparently to arrange for accommodation for the main body near a Freedomite prison there.

They are due back Wednesday when the Sons say they will continue their 400-mile westward trek from the British Columbia Kootenays.

TO SCHOOL BOARD

RCMP said a delegation of Freedomites also asked police to make arrangements for their children to go to school in the Grand Forks area.

Police referred them to the school board.

Police found no evidence of arson in the ruins of a wooden highway bridge which went up in flames 13 miles east of here.

Doukhobors Not Welcome

AGASSIZ (CP) — A Sons of Freedom Doukhobor delegation was told Monday there is no accommodation, land or housing for them in this peaceful Fraser Valley village 80 miles east of Vancouver.

Seven men and five women came here as a delegation from approximately 750 Freedomites now stalled at Grand Forks, 250 miles east of Vancouver, on a march to Agassiz.

They asked if they could lease land for a camp site for their large group.

U.S. Trade Plan, Canada's Exports Answer to Market

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Government sources here regard President Kennedy's trade program and Canada's drive for exports as the only real answer to British entry into the European Common Market.

Although Prime Minister Diefenbaker, on arrival in London for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, talked of an "alternative" to British entry, sources here said Monday the government's hopes are pinned on Canada's own efforts to expand her trade and the effect of the American program if it passes Congress.

The Canadian program includes the dispatch of trade missions abroad at the rate of one every two weeks and conferences such as last week's industrial expansion meeting here to awaken Canadian businessmen forcefully to the need to compete in the world market on the basis of design, quality and price.

Trade Minister Hees regards this program as vital not only if Britain does enter the European Common Market but even if she decides not to do so. Competition for markets in either case is going to be increasingly severe.

OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK

Trade department officials are optimistic that President Kennedy's program will be acceptable to Congress in large part.

Under the president's program, the United States would negotiate with Common Market countries gradual elimination of United States and Common Market tariffs over a wide variety of goods which are mainly produced in these areas.

This program would also permit the gradual reduction of U.S. duties up to 50 per cent on other goods.

Mac Backing Down On Market Pledge?

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan, bidding for Commonwealth understanding if not support, put the case Monday for British entry to the European Common Market.

His speech, on the opening day of a momentous Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, contained no new facts or trade assurances for Canada and some other member countries which have been close to Britain's Common Market negotiations at Brussels.

OTHER COUNTRIES

A conference communique said Macmillan put the case for joining the European Economic Community's six-nation trade group — "subject to satisfactory safeguards for other Commonwealth countries."

From the Canadian government's viewpoint, this appears to be a less precise pledge than others made in the past which promised protection to "essential" or "vital" trade interests of Commonwealth members in the British market.

WILL GIVE VIEWS

For the next two days the Commonwealth leaders, starting with Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker, will tell each Britain just how satisfactory they consider the safeguards worked out so far at Brussels.

Canadian officials were busy revising the text of Diefenbaker's speech today—now in its eighth draft—in the light of the case presented by Macmillan.

BASED ON SQUEEZE

It's expected Diefenbaker will base his argument on the squeeze facing Canada's $800,000,000-a-year export market in Britain from the trade terms as they shape up so far in Britain's uphill negotiations with the six EEC members at Brussels.

It seems likely he will also express the hope that these terms can be improved when Britain's chief Common Market negotiator, Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath, returns to the Brussels conference table in a month.

ALERNATIVE PLAN

The Canadian prime minister is not expected to deal today with a possible alternative plan for Commonwealth trade expansion should Britain decide to stay out of the Common Market.

Flag-Dipper Loses Bail Sent to Cell

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul A. Lapointe, 29, head of a group seeking a national flag for Canada, Monday was ordered to cells pending his trial on charges of pulling down a number of Union Jacks during the Queen Mother's visit last June.

Lapointe chose trial by jury at the opening of criminal assizes and Judge Maurice Cousineau ordered Lapointe to cells, although he had been free on bail until Monday.

It has been the practice in Montreal assizes court in recent years to hold persons choosing trial by jury.

"I'm going to the cells to defend liberty," shouted Lapointe as police led him away.

On Mountain Jet Tanker Takes 44 To Death

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A Strategic Air Command KC-135 jet tanker with 44 persons aboard crashed 20 miles northeast of here on Mount Kit Carson Monday. A U.S. Air Force spokesman said apparently there were no survivors.

Rescue and crash teams converged on the area where the wreckage was spread over a wide area.

The plane was reported missing on a flight from Ellsworth Air Force Base, S.D., to Fairchild Air Force Base near here. The air force said there were 40 military personnel and four crew members aboard, all members of the 28 Bomb Wing, Ellsworth.

First reports of the wreckage came from two volunteer searchers, Mrs. Clyde Rainwater said the pair, Bert Smith and Robert Hammer, spotted the wreckage about nine miles from her ranch.

Automation Invades Medicine

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—Doctors at the Mayo Clinic are using an electronic computer in a major trial of automation in medicine.

Some feel the idea will become widespread in a few years, with each patient given a routine analysis when he goes to his doctor.

ROUTINE ANALYSIS

Patients in seven of the clinic's 20 sections are given a long, brown envelope as they wait to see their doctors.

In it is the Minnesota Personality Inventory, a test developed at the University of Minnesota in 1941 and now in wide use.

PATIENTS TOLD

Patients are told:

"This is an inventory of your personality. By filling it out you will summarize the kind of person you are. This will help us solve your problem."

EASILY DONE

The questions — calling for true or false answers — are marked with a special pencil which triggers a computer when the test is fed through. Stored on the computer's magnetic tapes are many possible responses to the questions, and a system of analyzing the patient's particular pattern of responses.

SAMPLE QUESTIONS

Some of the questions:

"I enjoy reading newspaper articles on crime."

"I wake up most days feeling fresh and well rested."

"I work under tension."

"I loved my father."

"I generally feel life is worth living."

ENTIRE PICTURE

No single answer will give the doctor a clue to the patient's personality. But the entire picture may show a person with a normal response, a person not given to emotional illnesses.

'We Need It Now' Amalgamation Chamber Goal

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Number one project of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in 1962-63 will be to promote amalgamation of the four municipalities of Greater Victoria, says the chamber's new president.

Following his swearing-in at the chamber's annual meeting yesterday, John Wallace said Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich "live off" Victoria, "but provide little toward its welfare."

PROPER CLIMATE

Only through amalgamation, said Mr. Wallace, can Greater Victoria get a proper economic climate for development of the area's business activity and the welfare of its people.

STREAMLINE WORK

The chamber would have to streamline and subordinate its work for other worthy aims—including the promotion of tourism—in order to be free to concentrate on amalgamation, Mr. Wallace said.

LAUNCHING STUDY

The chamber at present has a committee considering the best way of launching a study of amalgamation.

Mr. Wallace said in an interview following the meeting he thinks Greater Victoria will be lucky if it gets amalgamation within five years. "But we need it now."

NOT INTERESTED

Mr. Wallace said the chamber is "definitely not" interested in a metropolitan form of government for Greater Victoria—one with a single body overseeing various separate councils. "That would just be government on government."

The chamber wants a single council, he said.

PUBLIC OPINION

Mr. Wallace said the chamber would concentrate on trying to create a climate of public opinion favorable to amalgamation. It would assemble facts and figures — but mere facts and figures could be twisted and used by opponents of amalgamation.

FEAR REMOVED

Addressing chamber members, Mr. Wallace said fear of amalgamation in some quarters must be removed, and the spirit of competition among municipalities—to the detriment of the whole area—must be ended.

"We must start at this stage to act like a community and continue development under a long-range plan," Mr. Wallace said.

SUCCEEDS WALTERS

Mr. Wallace, general manager of Yarrows, succeeds A. E. Walters. The vice-president, who is traditionally intended to be next president, is lawyer E. E. Pearlman.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Pinellas County health authorities reported four new cases of encephalitis (sleeping sickness) Monday, putting the county's toll at 177 since the outbreak started in June. Fifteen persons have died of the disease.

Why Not Cage Tourists For Their Protection?

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—Why not cage tourists at timber-cutting sites in a big truck or tractor for their own protection? In Florida, at one attraction, visitors are caged and monkeys run wild, a New York travel consultant told the Pacific Northwest Trade Association Monday.

"When I see logging trucks on the highways, I want to get into the forests and see the lumberjacks at work," Peter J. Celliers said. "I am told there is a danger for visitors, but there are ways around every obstacle if you don't just sit and stare at it."

Ottawa Eyes Cuba, Deeply Concerned

By JACK BEST

OTTAWA (CP)—Officials here are watching the Cuban situation with mounting anxiety.

Though Canada publicly has remained silent on the recent Communist arms buildup in the Caribbean Island, diplomatic sources privately admit to being deeply concerned.

Reports reaching the Canadian government have tended to confirm U.S. estimates that the latest big flow of Soviet weapons to Cuba has been essentially defensive.

They also support the belief that Soviet military personnel in Cuba are technicians, not combat troops.

EXPLOSIVE ISSUE

Nevertheless, the Communist power buildup is seen as an explosive ingredient in hemispheric affairs.

So far, it has not caused any visible deterioration in Canada-Cuban relations. Canada is one of the few countries in the Western Hemisphere which still have diplomatic ties with the Fidel Castro revolutionary government.

Canada also maintains trade relations with Cuba, though of late trade has fallen off drastically.

CANADA CRITICIZED

Canada has often been criticized in the U.S. for continuing to do business with Cuba through it forbids the export of arms and strategic materials.

Evicted Town On the March

CITRUSDAL, South Africa (more than 100 miles away) (AP) — Six hundred persons ranging in age to 90 left their homes Monday, taking only what they could carry, and set off to march in a straggling column.

The 600 comprise the non-white community of Elandsdoorn, a former Dutch Reformed Church mission settlement.

Claiming they had been evicted, one said:

"We will go on walking until we find somewhere to live. We will walk to Cape Town if we have to."

The owner of Elandsdoorn, farmer P. J. Smit, refused to talk to reporters. But his wife denied the community had been evicted.

"It was their own choice," she said.

The church sold the farm two years ago. The community, which had been there for generations, believed its tenancy was protected by a title deed. But in 1956 the clause was annulled by the governor general.

U.S. Deeply Involved in Formosa Spy Plane Mission

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States probably is as deeply involved as Formosa in the dispatch of a U-2 spy plane over Communist China at a time when there is increasing curiosity in Washington whether the Chinese are parmantly endeavoring to produce an atomic arsenal.

While Chiang Kai-shek's government has quickly accepted full responsibility for the latest U-2, which the Reds said they knocked down by some "unconventional" means, the high-flying plane capable of cruising at heights of more than 70,000 feet is an American product requiring U.S. government approval before it can be exported.

* * *

Formosan and U.S. administrations say Formosa purchased two of the U-2 planes from the U.S. manufacturer in July, 1960, just two months after Francis Gary Powers' plane was discovered and knocked down over Russia, causing an international furore that shattered a summit conference.

* * *

At that time the U.S. pledged not to send any more planes over Russia, a pledge that was repeated when President Kennedy took office in January, 1961.

But what could be more convenient than to "sell" the aircraft to some friendly power, over which the U.S. could exercise a great deal of control and have this friendly power continue doing what the U.S. says it no longer is doing?

* * *

The U-2 plane, with its powerful cameras, proved a valuable and accurate spying instrument. It gave the U.S. a great deal of information about missile launchings and troop movements in Russia. Undoubtedly similar information about Communist China has been transmitted to the U.S. through Formosa.

* * *

Recently there has been some confusion in Washington as to whether China is actually building an atomic bomb and how soon it may be able to test and explode it. There have been a variety of official guesses, including a startling one by a high authority that was hurriedly scrubbed.

* * *

The speed with which associates of this authority attempted to wash away the "guess" that the Chinese may be able to explode such a bomb "in a few months" has opened the question of whether this authority was speaking from a private hunch or from highly secret reconnaissance information.

In any case, the Communists are likely to make the most of the new U-2 intrusion when the United Nations reassembles next week. On Sept. 4, after a U-2 appeared over Sakhalin Island north of Japan, Soviet Premier Khrushchev warned that if such penetrations are repeated, Russia would be compelled to take "appropriate retaliatory measures."

"I'd gi' the lass a dress allowance, Chalkie, but I can't be sure she wouldn't spend it afore I could borrow it back."

Huge Water Tunnel Stalled Indefinitely

Completion of the 5½-mile tunnel connecting Sooke Lake and Goldstream River at an estimated cost of $5,000,000 has been postponed indefinitely by Greater Victoria waterboard.

The board acted on the advice of commissioner R. A. Upward, who said yesterday he saw "inherent dangers" in borrowing of so large an amount to complete the project quickly.

He said $900,000 has already been accumulated from current revenues, enough to finish one mile of tunnel or excavate two miles of the five remaining miles.

"I suggest we hold off until slacker times or a recession comes when a project of this size could give a lift to the local economy," the commissioner said.

At present, B.C.'s mining economy is booming and hard-rock miners, needed for the project, are all employed on major jobs like the Peace River dam, said Mr. Upward.

Time is on the side of the water board. It will take five years, at the present rate of growth, for the population of the area served by the board to reach 165,000—the estimated figure at which the tunnel will be needed to meet summer irrigation demands.

The work remaining can be done in three years or less if additional money is spent to speed up the job.

Meanwhile, the money set aside from revenue is earning 5½ per cent interest, said Mr. Upward. Present funds are allocated as follows: $545,000 in B.C. parity bonds, $110,000 in B.C. guaranteed bonds and $300,000 in Dominion of Canada bonds.

Mr. Upward said construction of the tunnel out of revenue "is not as impossible as it at first seemed. Steady growth of the area (with average weather) allows saving of close to $100,000 a year from water sales, plus logging profits which at present run $100,000 but are expected to increase to $250,000."

Water-Sale Deficit Possible

Bad August weather sharply cut sales of water for irrigation and could result in a deficit on the year's operation of Greater Victoria water district.

Commissioner R. A. Upward said yesterday, however, there are surpluses from other years to balance the budget.

The commissioner said a July increase and steadily rising demand for water in rural territories will keep any deficit small enough to be covered by surpluses of previous years.

"There will be no need, therefore, to adjust the wholesale cost of water because of the influence of poor weather on water demands," he said.

Easier Health Laws Asked for Hunters

Mayor R. B. Wilson yesterday suggested the Greater Victoria Water Board should press for new legislation in the Public Health Act to require less stringent health measures for recreational use of watershed lands.

Mayor Wilson said it was unfair that health regulations required blood tests from hunters entering remote parts of the watershed which would not be in use in the immediate future.

But his suggestion was in line with the thinking of water board commissioner Ronald Upward, who said he would prefer to leave the regulations as they are, because it served to limit the number allowed in the watershed area.

The exchange of opinions came during a water board meeting when final approval was given to allowing 100 hunters into the watershed area to hunt deer that have been harming small trees.

Members or Dues

Finances Weak Chamber Told

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce is embarking on a membership drive to aid its ailing pocketbook.

The chamber had a net loss of $1,300 last year — about equal to the unpaid dues for the year — retiring president A. E. Walters told yesterday's annual meeting.

OR BOOST DUES

"We must either enlarge our membership or increase our dues," Mr. Walters said.

Chamber manager J. R. Coppinger asked each chamber member to try to sign up another in the coming week.

IN THE HOLE

Mr. Walters said the chamber's retail merchants group is $2,500 in the hole on its scheme of sponsoring Christmas trees and other decorations for streets in the city's business section at Christmas and is "seriously considering" dropping the scheme.

The chamber owes the $2,500 to the City of Victoria.

HOPE VOICED

The chamber received $3,337 in contributions for the scheme last year. Decorations cost $5,451 and the scheme began the fiscal year with a deficit of $463.

Mr. Walters said he hopes the retail merchants group will be able to raise enough money so the decoration scheme won't have to be abandoned.

In the year ended June 30 the chamber had revenues of $30,686 and expenses of $32,947 for a $2,261 deficit. Deducting the $962 depreciation allowance gives the net loss figure of $1,300 used by Mr. Walters.

Chance for Douglas

Tradition, Tactics Meant Early Vote

OTTAWA (CP) — What factors were involved in the federal government's decision to call a byelection Oct. 22 in the British Columbia constituency of Burnaby-Coquitlam?

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, in announcing the decision last week to accept the resignation of Erhart Regier of the New Democratic Party, emphasized that legal opinion was sharply divided on whether an MP can resign between the date of his election and the election by the new Commons of a Speaker who normally receives resignations.

Political sources indicate there probably were two dominant factors in the decision as well as some minor ones.

Perhaps the strongest in the eyes of senior Conservatives was the possibility that a delay in calling a byelection might be taken by the public as evidence the Conservatives feared another test at the polls in the wake of the June 18 general election which placed the government in a minority position.

A second factor, openly referred to by Conservatives, is that the government has a traditional obligation to give the leader of another party a chance to find a Commons seat.

New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas, defeated in Regina City in June, has been nominated in Burnaby-Coquitlam and Mr. Regier, who held the seat from 1953, will be his campaign manager.

Observers here see an element of self interest on the government's part in calling a byelection. Should Mr. Douglas win Burnaby-Coquitlam, there might be less danger of a leaderless group of NDP Commons members taking precipitate action in the heat of debate which would endanger a minority government.

There is little support here for the theory that Mr. Diefenbaker was making a bid for voting support from the NDP, which some observers regard as the party least prepared for an early election and therefore most likely to refrain from voting the government out of office.

New Eating Habits Necessary For Dieters Losing Weight

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Are 500 calories a day too low for a diet?, If so, what effects will such a diet have? My girl friend is determined to lose a lot of weight in a short time. I claim this will run her down. I am worried.—Miss P.W.

Yes, I think that figure is too low.

I'll admit that in experimental programs, even smaller diets have been used, but only under direct supervision of physicians, for only a limited time, and only after patients first had thorough physical examinations. The patients also had frequent tests while on such super-restricted diets. And, in such instances with which I am familiar, the careful, supervised use of drugs.

ONLY AT EXPENSE

The determination to lose weight in a hurry is common, but it isn't usually effective. You'll lose weight on 500 calories a day, but you do it only at the expense of hunger and irritability. There is the risk of nutritional deficiencies.

When the dieter finally reaches the end of will power the reaction is an abrupt return to former eating habits and the fat returns.

Learning a new "habit of eating" is absolutely necessary if a person is going to stop being fat and achieve — and maintain — proper weight.

Anybody with determination to start and stick to a more successful diet — say 1,000 calories, needs adequate protein, cereals, calcium, green and yellow vegetables, some fruit juices.

Exercises not only helps lose weigh but keeps muscles trim, help skin stay snug instead of becoming flabby from over quick reducing, and avoid irritable nervousness.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for hair to grow back if it has been lost due to a nervous condition—MRS. D.

Yes, provided the nervous condition is controlled first. There are striking examples of this in everyday practice.

A special message to all parents of boys and girls now in high school

BANK OF MONTREAL

UNIVERSITY EDUCATION PROGRAMME

A comprehensive, life-insured plan for financing a college education for boys and girls now in high school

"If you are like most parents with children in high school, you are probably wondering how you are going to meet the costs of financing your youngster's college education. To help parents solve this problem, the Bank of Montreal has introduced its University Education Programme—the first life-insured plan of its kind in Canada.

Under this comprehensive programme, parents, guardians and sponsors of high-school students can spread the cost of a university education over periods of up to nine years, thus keeping monthly payments to amounts they can afford without hardship. And the cost to the parent is only a fraction of the interest paid on a straight loan programme.

HOW THE PROGRAMME WORKS

Under the basic plan, the parent agrees to make monthly payments to the Bank starting, say, two years before the student enters university, and terminating one year after graduation. In return, the parent receives an annual sum from the Bank at the start of each of the four university years.

VARIANTS OF THE PLAN

Several optional plans are available under the programme, and these vary as to the number of years in which the parent wishes to make monthly payments, as well as to the amount required annually for university expenses. Plans are based on objectives ranging from $1,000 to $8,000 payable to the parent in four equal annual instalments.

Here is an example of how one of the basic plans can be varied to suit your needs:

OBJECTIVE: $4,000

OPTIONS	YOU PAY MONTHLY	PERIODS OF PAYMENT	YOUR PAYMENTS BEGIN
Plan A	$49.55	7 years	2 years
Plan B	42.78	8 years	3 years
Plan C	37.56	9 years	4 years

LIFE-INSURANCE FEATURE

If the parent concerned should die after the start of the programme, the funds for education specified in the agreement will be advanced by the Bank each year without any further payments being made by the family or the estate.

HOW TO JOIN THE PROGRAMME

See the people at your neighbourhood B of M branch. You will receive a warm welcome from a staff who will be pleased to give you further details and to help you select a plan suited to your needs. Ask for your copy of the Bank of Montreal University Education Programme folder.

P.S. If you need help in financing a student already in University—or planning to register this year—talk to your B of M Manager. Chances are he can arrange a tuition loan with extended payments adapted to your circumstances.

'Unusual Means' Brought Down U2

PEKING (CP)—A leading Communist Chinese official has told his colleagues the U-2 spy plane downed over China Sunday was "brought down by unconventional means," usually-reliable East European sources here said Monday night.

They said this phrase was not explained by the official.

The foreign ministry and information department have given no further details and no indication when this silence will be broken.

It remained unclear what happened to the Nationalist Chinese pilot of the plane, and just where it was shot down, except it was somewhere in "east China."

Meanwhile Peking directed its propaganda guns at the U.S.

It said the U-2 flight was "clear new evidence" that President Kennedy under the guise of seeking peace was "actively preparing to launch a new war" in the Far East.

Chiang Kai - shek's national government on Formosa has acknowledged loss of the American-built U-2 but shunted off Communist charges of spying by declaring the mainland "is our territory."

There was speculation the Russians might have given the Chinese Communists ground-to-air missiles able to reach the 90,000-foot altitude plane.

REWARD OFFERED

Red China recently offered a reward of $280,000 in gold to any Nationalist pilot for turning over a U-2 plane.

Nationalist officials refused to identify the missing pilot or say anything about him except that they were sorry for him.

goes on twice as fast, dries in 30 minutes!

that's the beauty of A-100 Latex House Paint

A-100 goes on so smoothly, so swiftly, you'll call it automatic. Yet the wonder of Latex gives you lasting protection—puts money in your pocket by postponing repainting for years. And—never mind the weather man—A-100 is so dry in 30 minutes, weather won't harm it. Defies bugs and dust, too—no time for them to settle!

But more, much more! A-100 has absolutely amazing resistance to blistering because its special texture lets the woodwork "breathe".

Easy clean-up too—just wash your brushes as you do your hands: in soap and water.

The pioneering research facilities of four famous companies have produced this final word in paint for outdoors.

Confidence Restored

DURING THE recent scare in financial circles—happily unfounded—of the British Columbia's economy, a percentage of the various issues of B.C. parity bonds were handed in for redemption.

The exact dollar value of such redemptions has not been made public although it is known that the City of Vancouver disposed of about $1,800,000 of these securities.

The redemptions were made by the B.C. government mainly out of sinking fund and other resources, thus making it a holder, albeit indirectly, of its own paper.

It is understandable that the government should not want this situation to continue longer than is necessary, and when the PGE had to turn down several million dollars worth of applications for its new 5½ per cent parity bonds, it was done naturally with great reluctance.

Since then it has been found that many holders of the old PGE parity bonds, maturing Sept. 15, were among those who failed to effect the exchange into the new issue before the closure was applied, and the government is now inviting these disappointed investors to apply again, this time for parity bonds of previous issues, that the government redeemed while the "crisis" lasted.

To what degree the public will take up the government's new offer has yet to be discovered, but the fact that the new PGE parity bonds are trading at a premium would indicate that the investors' fear of the B.C. economic situation has disappeared and that the parity bonds are once again looked upon as extremely attractive securities that give 5½ per cent interest and are callable at any time at the desire of the holder.

A New Look

NEW STORE fronts and paint have of late brightened more than one part of the downtown area and added attractively to the local scene; and a spread of such refurbishing should pay dividends. When shopping is titivated by appearance the results usually are favorable.

The fine Yates Street canopy in the 700-block opened officially last week by the mayor is a valuable addition to the amenities and he truly lauded it as a splendid downtown improvement. Its shelter value would also become noticeable in yesterday's rain.

There is the prospect that the other side of the street may be similarly adorned, and this is an example that may induce merchants in other streets to follow suit. The first of such canopies, that of lesser length on Fort Street, foretold the advantages of such covering for store patrons.

These innovations are the work of the merchants concerned and while rightly they expect to be repaid by additional business the result is pleasing and reacts to the advantage of all. They improve the city decor and increase its functional virtues.

All this gives the downtown area a new look that is very welcome.

Too Sweeping

PREMIER BENNETT'S business acumen has been demonstrated time and again. It is no less notable than his flair for political showmanship. The latter, however, would appear to have the ascendancy in his almost disdainful dismissal of the Glassco royal commission report on federal government organization as having nothing to teach the British Columbia government.

The premier says that the provincial government is run more efficiently than any big business he knows of, and although some may feel inclined to doubt this statement, disproving it would be difficult if not impossible: comparison would be between oranges and apples.

He also says, however, that "we have all that efficiency" suggested in the royal commission report and that the province is devoid of political patronage and has eliminated waste. And these claims smack more of the hustings than of a realistic assessment of the situation. They are too sweeping not to be doubted.

Few will question that the Bennett administration has made praiseworthy strides in increasing civil service efficiency. But it cannot be accepted that perfection has been achieved, and useless expenditure of time and money and material eliminated.

There is always room for improvement, and it seems hardly likely that the Glassco report, even though directed exclusively to mapping suggested ways of overhauling federal government organization, cannot provide British Columbia's government too with ideas for further sensible economies in its operations.

Sartorial Shocks

THE PIPES AND DRUMS of the Canadian Black Watch, which have been taking part in the Edinburgh military tattoo, will usher Prime Minister Diefenbaker into the Canadian government travel bureau in London for its official opening ceremonies today.

One doesn't expect Mr. Diefenbaker to appear in the kilt but probably he will wear formal dress of some suitable kind. He had better look out, nevertheless. Male clothes, according to that would-be arbiter of male dress, the British magazine "Tailor and Cutter," are for statesmen symbolic of international status.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev is indicted by the magazine for his "baggy and shaggy" appearance, and German Chancellor Adenauer for the opposite. The latter apparently clings to the traditional tails and morning coats which, "Tailor and Cutter" concludes, is a reminder of Germany's international behavior during the last 60 years.

The magazine should turn up its own old prints of 60 years ago, or others if it does not have them. It will find British statesmen then and since—and other national leaders—similarly adorned. It must also be forgetting Ascot of current fashion and palace garden parties close at home.

Indeed a return to the formalities and dignities of old might not be a bad thing for international gatherings. A little more politeness, and thus calmness, might then prevail.

President Kennedy in turn is assailed because he is now buying his suits in his own country instead of in Britain. This the magazine interprets as a negation of his international responsibilities. Poor man. He can't even do as he pleases about his own clothes.

Sport has become subject to international pressures and prestige; and now the sartorial trade would imprison statesmen in its preferences. A pity Mr. Diefenbaker hadn't donned the kilt and given "Tailor and Cutter" a real shock.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

THE words of an old-time essay caused me to pause, with encouragement: "The trouble with the world is that it is always growing."

Growing pains, as it were.

Here perhaps is the answer to all our worries. You might think that by this time the earth should be full-grown, but obviously the process goes on for ever.

It's a pleasing thought nevertheless. It invites the conclusion that we shan't blow ourselves up after all.

Another term for growing pains is evolution, or, colloquially speaking, muddling through. Evolution means change and since it is constant the pattern alters continuously.

There are days when it would help if nature followed suit, with dandelions for instance, which aren't at all dandy.

The Medes and Persians must have nourished this flower for export; or some other ancient horticulturist at least.

* * *

Progress, then is the handmaiden of growing pains, or vice versa. It doesn't matter much. The worries we think of as new, calamitous, beyond bearing — excepting perhaps the split atom—are as old as man.

The form in which they appear is different, that's all.

There is a chance therefore for the old world yet. Hiroshima need not be a Rubicon.

On the other hand the same essayist once wrote about monkeying; not meaning animals playing tag among the trees but the human bent for poking into things. And he never heard of a sputnik.

* * *

Monkeying stems from curiosity, as the little boy who strips a new toy illustrates. Not without wonder there's been some thought lest in recent years we, the human world, haven't become a bit too curious.

However there may be a saving grace in this idea of growing pains. If man has evolved muddling through the centuries and all the tortuous perils of his own creation, and reached this era of 1962 still alive and kicking, as he certainly has, perhaps it's foolish to think his valedictory is just round the corner.

Of course man in the abstract and man in the particular are not quite the same thing. One can be philosophical about the former while being in a frightful stew about the latter.

Especially if the latter is oneself.

* * *

However the one terrible bridge that haunts society may never have to be crossed. We shall muddle through, evolve, live in a constant flux, but keep going. The pains are simply the sign of our growth.

So the past would indicate.

Remember that one rusts if one stands still, as unkind Rip Van Winkles sometimes say of Victoria, their own growing pains allayed by paralysis of the mind. It is a pity growth must be so belligerent, but the lessons of history are not fatal.

Evolution can be aided by a haven of amity and goodwill. These are never amiss at any time anywhere. The growth can then be a little less painful.

But I fancy we shall muddle through in safety, as usual. Although I admit this is more of a hope than a fancy.

Communication Satellites

Wonders Yet to Come

By ARTHUR C. CLARKE

The idea that artificial satellites might one day be used for relaying radio and television was first suggested in October, 1945, in an article, "Extra-Terrestrial Relays," published in Wireless World. The author was Arthur C. Clarke, the noted British science writer who was this year awarded the Kalinga Prize for the popularization of science by an international jury appointed by UNESCO.

A former chairman of the British Interplanetary Society, Mr. Clarke has written extensively about spaceships and expeditions into the cosmos. His 28 books, both fiction and non-fiction, have been published in 15 languages. At the twelfth International Astronautical Congress, in Washington, in October, 1961, Mr. Clarke delivered a remarkable lecture on "The Social Inpact of Communication Satellites."

* * *

THE launching of the TELSTAR satellite, as has been universally recognized, opens up a new era in human communications. The last barriers of distance—those imposed by the curve of the Earth and the vagaries of the ionosphere—have been broken. Ten thousand kilometres are now no greater than ten.

Yet TELSTAR, brilliantly successful though it has been, is only a modest beginning. During the next 12 months, the United States will launch at least three other types of communication satellites. Some will be "passive"—i.e., giant balloons like the spectacular ECHO—and will act as radio mirrors reflecting back the energy beamed on to them. These have the advantage that there is nothing to wear out or to go wrong, and an unlimited number of signals can be reflected simultaneously. But they are very inefficient, since only a minute fraction of the energy aimed at them is returned to Earth.

* * *

The "active" satellites — those which receive, amplify and rebroadcast the signals beamed to them from ground stations—include, besides the American Telegraph and Telephone Company's TELSTAR, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's RELAY. This will have a very similar orbit and performance to TELSTAR, and is due to be launched late in 1962.

A low-altitude, fast-moving satellite like TELSTAR or RELAY, suffers from one serious defect. It can be used to link two given ground stations only for a few minutes at a time. Then it shoots out of sight around the Earth, and it may be hours before it returns to a favorable position. To provide a continuous service, . . . dozens (perhaps as many as 50) of low-altitude satellites are needed, scattered round the Earth so that every ground station will have at least one in its sky at any time. And to add to the cost and complexity of the system, each ground station must be equipped with an enormous, movable antenna which can track the satellites as they race across the heavens at almost the apparent speed of a high-altitude jet.

The answer to this problem, as I pointed out when I first proposed communication satellites in 1945, is the so-called synchronous or stationary satellite.

At an altitude of 36,000 km, a satellite required exactly 24 hours to go round the world—the same period the earth itself takes to turn on its axis. It can, therefore, stay fixed in the sky, hovering forever over the same spot, just as if it were supported on an invisible tower. Three such satellites, spaced equally round the Earth, could provide any type of radio or TV service over the whole globe (except for small blind spots around the Poles).

The first 24-hour satellite—SYNCOM, built by the Hughes Company—is to be launched in late 1962. It will be not quite stationary, as its orbit will be slightly inclined to the Equator, but it will oscillate along a fixed meridian in mid-Atlantice. A much more elaborate military system, the U.S. Defence Department's ADVENT, will probably be the first true synchronous satellite. Test launches into a 36,000 km. high orbit are due in 1963.

From now on, satellite communication may be expected to develop with explosive rapidity. The bonds between the U.S. and European radio and television networks will be strengthened as later TELSTAR come into service, and more people will watch the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo than have ever before witnessed a single event since history began.

The really interesting political and social repercussions will appear around the 1970's. By that time, it should be technically feasible to place in the 24-hour orbit TV transmitters powerful enough to be received directly on mass-produced domestic sets with fairly simple antennas.

This means that every community on Earth will be able to receive both TV and high-quality radio from every country that can establish (or rent) the necessary satellite channels.

* * *

Although TV is the most spectacular by-product of communication satellites, it may not be the most important one. I will merely list, without attempting to explain or justify, some of the developments we may ultimately expect:

A world-wide telephone system whereby any person can contact any other person by dialling a number, irrespective of where both parties may be.

Replacement of air-mail by the almost instantaneous delivery of correspondence through facsimile techniques. (The "Orbital Post-Office").

Global "newspapers." The subscriber would be able to dial a number and the front page of the "paper" would appear on his television screen remaining there until he pressed a button, when it would be replaced by page two and so on. Not only the local paper but all papers in all countries could be viewed in this way, merely by dialling a number.

As electronic retrieval systems develop, this will lead to a world library service able to supply on demand anything ever recorded by mankind.

International conferences that delegates can attend electronically without leaving home.

The establishment of a world language for communication purposes.

Dispersal and decentralization of industry, government, and society as a whole, since physical proximity will no longer be important.

As is always the case with any major scientific or engineering development, the most important consequences of this new technique cannot be foreseen today. The cultural and political impact of communication satellites will be so profound, affecting human society on so many levels, that they will demand a large measure of international control. The International Telecommunications Union will be holding a special conference in 1963 to discuss some of the problems, particularly the vital matter of frequency allocations.

Though my 17-year-old paper was concerned primarily with the technical aspects of communication satellites, it contained the sentence: "A true broadcast service, giving constant field strength at all times over the whole globe, would be invaluable, not to say indispensable, in a world society."

Today, I would go further: it may help to bring one about.

From the Scriptures

And it came to pass, that, as they went in the way, a certain man said unto him, Lord, I will follow Thee whithersoever Thou goest.—St. Luke, 9:57.

Where Are the Creative Writers?

By RONALD EVANS

WHERE are all Canada's new young creative writers? Nowhere, it seems. That's the way it looks, at least, from the latest report of the Canada Council.

The council's fifth annual report released this month says in its preamble:

"Now that the council has had five years' of experience, we believe that we have gained enough knowledge to justify an attempt to look ahead, not very far it is true, and not in the hope of defining accurately every hillock and pool by the road, but the reasonable expectation that we may discover at least some of the more prominent features of the terrain into which we shall move within the next few years."

And so the council peers out across the artistic terrain, and what does it see? Much that is encouraging.

* * *

The theatre territory doesn't look too good; there are several thriving centres but a dearth of representative regional theatres and virtually no playwrights of any note. Still, the situation looks better than it has for many years.

Opera looks better still, with the Canadian Opera Company flourishing and Canadian stars distinguishing themselves in foreign capitals.

The view is somewhat more cloudy in ballet: the council now is in the midst of a survey of the fortunes and future of Canada's three ballet companies; but again there are signs of great achievement.

Music, too, has its own special problems, says the council, (a lack of co-operation among the major symphonies is one of them), but things are encouraging.

And what about creative writing? Next to nothing.

In only one section of the report, in a passage dealing with the gift by Olivia Terrell of Stanley House on the Baie des Chaleurs, Que., does the council refer directly to creative writers. Here the council hopes to put up creative artists, perhaps for a month or two "when they have urgent work at hand."

"We believe" the council report continues "that we can have every expectation of finding particularly among the younger people artists to whom the opportunity to work hard in pleasant surroundings and congenial company will be invaluable."

Maybe so. But the council hasn't been that successful to date in finding these hard-working young artists so far, particularly among the writers.

At the back of the 166-page council report are some 70 pages listing the council's $1,285,000 dispersals in grants, awards, scholarships and fellowships. The expenditures to individual creative writers can be listed in less than a page. There were just 11 such grants, five of them to novelists, out of a total of 608 grants, spread through the arts, humanities and social sciences.

It's a pretty pitiful showing for the creative writers.

* * *

Now does this indicate the council is somehow prejudiced against writers that it deliberately withholds its largesse from them?

I don't think so. I think it's simply a matter that the council can't find the promising young writers in this country to recognize and encourage.

There are a fair number of successful established creative writers in this country. And there's at least one outstanding writer, Brian Moore, in a sort of intermediary stage: not yet perhaps at the top of his powers but already drawing away and beyond our best to date.

But the promising newcomers are few and far between; hard to find, as the council discovered.

Once more then: where are all Canada's new young creative writers? Nowhere, it seems.

Filling the Party Warchests

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

HIGH FINANCE: Because of the unsettled political situation, political parties have been trying to refill depleted war chests ever since the June election passed into history. Whisper is that campaign funds are hard to come by. Individuals and companies that contributed to the party or parties of their choice during the last election drive are reluctant to donate again so soon. Some usually reliable sources of election funds are temporarily dry. Parties and contributors faced a similar problem a few years ago when the 1957 general election was followed by a second on March 31, 1958. But there was a difference. In 1958, the Conservatives were odds-on favorite to win easily and parties got by with low-budget campaigns.

* * *

DIPLOMATIC ROW: The American embassy here is still without an ambassador. President Kennedy is still having trouble finding a suitable (and willing) replacement for Livingston Merchant, the smooth professional who surprised everyone by announcing his retirement some four months ago. Early last month, Washington gossip was that the post had been offered to two Democratic congressional veterans and that each had declined with thanks.

* * *

DEPARTURES: Soon after he had conceded personal defeat in Toronto Rosedale, ex-Public Works Minister David Walker indicated that he would contest the riding again when the next election occurred. Party sources now believe that Mr. Walker, close friend and confidante of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, has had a change of heart and intends to remain on the sidelines.

* * *

TACTICAL: Observers are puzzled by Social Credit Leader Real Caouette's insistence that the Liberals will block an early election by supporting the government in any real crisis. National Liberal Leader Lester Pearson has called consistently for the defeat of the government and an early election. Mr. Caouette, unconvinced, pooh-poohs this as mere window dressing. The Liberals, he insists, will keep the Conservatives in office until next year at least.

* * *

GRASS ROOTS: NDP Leader T. C. Douglas, rudely shaken by his personal defeat in Regina City by Conservative Ken More on June 18, may not find Burnaby-Coquitlam quite as soft a touch as had once been thought. Reports reaching the Liberals here suggest that the voters who gave NDP winner Erhart Regier such a handsome majority on June 18, aren't too fussy about backing an outsider, even if that outsider is a distinguished party leader. NDP sources scoff at the idea that the riding, which has elected a CCF-NDP candidate ever since it was established in 1953, is likely to change now.

* * *

FIRING AT RANDOM: Relations between the CBC and the Board of Broadcast Governors are cool. The CBC, which would dearly love to return to that grand old system under which it policed radio and television operations in Canada (its own and everyone else's), feels that too many BBG decisions have been at the expense of the CBC, when private and public broadcasting interests have collided. The CBC's discontent has been muffled to date because one crown agency isn't expected to take pot shots at another. But the discontent remains.

Triumph of

Idiotic Hectoring

By CASSANDRA from London

I AM a serious student of The Official Form conceived, born and despatched from Whitehall.

I read these documents with a good deal of care and the pleasure—if such it can be called—that I derive from this pursuit is in trying to imagine the kind of person who dreamed them up.

I strongly recommend Form Wt 57079/3076 98m 10/61 — McC & Co. Ltd. — K 20755 (980/155).

This is a masterpiece issued by the Ministry of Pensions and National Insurance.

A young lady recently lost her National Insurance Card and applied to the ministry for a new one. Form Wt 570-and-all that was the result.

It is a triumph of idiotic hectoring incivility and must be the work of an exceptionally dense little bureaucratic bully. Without wasting a moment he warns the applicant that he or she may be liable to prosecution if they are not extremely careful. There is no actual mention of solitary confinement but it is clearly uppermost in the official's mind.

There are no less than 60 questions posed and the usual solemn declaration to be signed (on form C.F.120, of course).

* * *

I cannot reproduce all this impudent rot but I can give you some idea of the inquisitorial nature of the interrogation. In rapid fire you are asked:

"Who bought the stamps? At what intervals were the stamps bought? How were the stamps paid for—by cash or cheque? What evidence, if any, is there of purchase of stamps?"

I like that "if any."

By this time the cops in Whitehall are looking up your previous convictions.

There is a brief interval while a brighter larger bulb is being fitted to the lamp which they thrust close up against your eyeballs. Then they are at it again:

"Where was the card normally kept? What is done to ensure its safety? On what date was the card last seen? On what occasion? By whom was the card last seen?"

* * *

They've got on to the "When did you last see your father" technique and there's no holding them.

Questioning is resumed while distant screams from some cellar indicate that another victim is getting the full treatment.

"Where exactly was the card then placed? On what date was it discovered that the card was lost or destroyed? How was the loss or destruction discovered?"

The assumption that you are guilty is well shown in the next question: "Reason for any delay in reporting the loss or destruction to the ministry."

Tea is brought in and you are ostentatiously not offered a cup.

The man with the built-in sneer and granite chips in his voice continues: "What have you done to trace the card?" By now he is not waiting for an answer and rages on:

"On what date was it posted? Where was it posted? Does the person who posted it definitely remember doing so? (Aaah that beautiful word 'definitely.') If so, what fixes the fact of posting in his or her memory?"

* * *

There is no time to answer that what fixed the fact of posting and made it so memorable was that you delivered it from the top of a camel while shooting larks with a catapult. The insolent drivel rises to a scream:

"Was the card in an envelope? If so, was the flap of the envelope stuck down or was it tucked in? What were the name and address on the envelope? Was any other card or document in the same envelope? Was any other enclosure? Was the enclosure received?

The last triumphant shriek is: "If so, how do you know this?"

Yes, for blithering threatening rubbish I strongly recommend Form Wt 57079/3076 98m 10/61—McC & Co. Ltd.—K20755 (980/155).

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

Gen. George Washington was defeated in the Battle of Brandywine by a British force under Sir William Howe 185 years ago today—in 1777. American losses in the engagement, named after the Brandywine River in Pennsylvania near where the battle was joined, were about 1,000 killed, wounded and prisoners, compared with about 600 for the British. Howe followed up his victory and 16 days later entered Philadelphia.

1916—The centre span of the Quebec Bridge dropped into the St. Lawrence River near Quebec City while being set in place, killing 13 workmen.

Hunted Since June

Doctor Caught

NEW YORK (AP)—The FBI announced the capture in Europe Monday of a New York physician sought since the abortion death last June of a teen-aged girl.

Dr. Harvey Lothringer, 41, was seized in the tiny sovereign state of Andorra that lies on the borde between France and Spain. The FBI has been seeking him since his disappearance three months ago.

DISMEMBERED

The physician vanished a few days before the dismembered remains of 19-year-old Barbara Lotrumento were found in the sewer of Lothringer's combined home and office in the borough of Queens.

Harvey G. Foster, head of the FBI here, said Dr. Lothringer was arrested in the company of his office receptionist, Theresa Carillo, 24, a former airline hostess whom authorities described as his girl friend.

New Constitution In Force Today

LUSAKA (Reuters)—Northern Rhodesia's new constitution will come into force today, a government spokesman announced Monday.

The spokesman said the legislature has been dissolved by proclamation and a general election must take place within three months.

Earlier it had been announced an election would be held before the end of October in this British protectorate.

Northern Rhodesia's four major political parties all will contest the election.

Kenneth Kaunda's United Nations Independence Party (UNIP) has decided to contest all 45 seats and the United Federal Party of the federal prime minister, Sir Roy Welensky, is expected to do the same.

Lumumba's Heir May Be Freed

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Antoine Gizenga, the former Lumumbist leader who has been held prisoner for eight months, may be freed, sources close to the central government said Monday.

Premier Cyrille Adoula and his cabinet were reported considering the step, confident the 37-year-old leftist no longer represents a real threat to the Leopoldville regime he tried to overthrow.

FOLLOWING LOST

They felt that Gizenga has lost most of his personal following during the months in a lonely island jail in the Congo River.

Gizenga regarded himself as the political heir of Patrice Lumumba and tried to take over when The Congo's first premier was slain.

As long as the sullen Gizenga remains a prisoner, Adoula is deprived of support from some African and Communist states which once championed Gizenga.

Sources here expect the government to make a decision on Gizenga's fate within the next fortnight.

LIKE KALONJI

Gizenga may simply be allowed to escape, as was political prisoner Albert Kalonji, the Bulaba tribal emporer of the diamond-making state of South Kasai.

With the co-operation of some government officials Kalonji made his way from jail back to his capital of Bakwanga last week. He immediately promised his full support to a new federal Congo.

Gizenga was confined last February, after leading an unsuccessful insurrection from Stanleyville.

Six-Orbit Trip Delay Ordered

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla (AP)—The planned six-orbit space journey of astronaut Walter M. Schirra has been delayed three days until Sept. 28 to allow more time for flight preparation.

Project Mercury officials made the decision Monday after evaluating reports on the Atlas booster, the capsule, tracking, recovery and other systems.

NOT READY?

There was an unofficial report that the main Pacific Ocean tracking ship, the Rose Knot, was not quite ready. The ship recently was modified for the tracking mission.

Officials reported the Atlas and capsule in good condition. They were joined together Monday on launch pad No. 14 and extensive compatibility tests began which will continue until launch time.

Board Plans Sharp Look At Playboy

EDMONTON (CP) — Playboy magazine will be given "close scrutiny" here Sept. 28 at a meeting of the provincial advisory board on objectionable publications.

Mrs. Louise Lalonde, former chairman of the advisory board, says its planned scrutiny of Playboy was prompted by a story that appeared in the July issue. The story concerned the seduction of a girl by a man travelling with her on a bus to a prayer meeting in the Southern U.S.

"It is the teen-agers who read the magazines that appear on the stands that we are concerned about," she said.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 300 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

The Freedomites are a troubled people in a psychiatric sense! They are unable to accept the norm of Canadian life where destructive tendencies are frowned upon and Agassiz a dead end.

Possibly the real responsibility for these people lies with the health authorities? Certainly the solution to the troubles experienced sits beneath the surface, deep in the labyrinth of the mind.

Destroying a home is serious enough but in mass form, doubly so. There's something weird, too, in the explosive nature indulged in over the years. And where duty to your fellow man is at fault and the proper spirit falls far short of what is expected.

The mind that can conceal and condone terrorism behind its urbane facade is sick and in need of treatment. Perhaps the psychiatrist can succeed where the law has failed? Enlightenment absorbs the darkness.

CPR Obligations

Referring to the CPR and its "moral obligations," in The Daily Colonist, Aug. 29, it appears that Victoria Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow has a point there: that the B. C. government be urged to investigate fully the CPR "moral obligation" to provide ferry service to Vancouver Island.

More so, the Victoria alderman has backing from Dan Campbell (SC-Comox). The fact the city of Vancouver is asked to pay almost $3,000,000 for a golf course is indicative of the fact the CPR has a good thing going in real estate. Yet the company cuts its mainland-Vancouver Island ferry service to one ship because the service is losing money. Dan Campbell added taxpayers are subsidizing the company's transport operations while the value of its real estate holdings is excluded from its over-all profit picture.

Maybe the CPR has acquired the impression that it is the "chosen people," as a street corner preacher described the Wise Men.

In Safe Hands

I'm sure that many people living in Victoria are unaware of the help and willing assistance given not only in disasters but also when our young children are involved by the police force, doctors and hospital staffs.

Embarking from a taxi completing my journey from Germany where I had served a tour of duty with Canada's NATO Brigade I was informed that my young daughter Kelly Lee had been run over and taken to the Jubilee Hospital. On arrival at the hospital I was informed by my wife that the police had brought her and that if transportation home was not available to call them and they would try and get her home.

Later I learned that the police had been very prompt and certainly were a great help to soothe the wife's feelings at the time. To some this means little but to a soldier who is away from home it shows that our families, at least in Victoria, are in safe hands . . .

Sherlock Holmes

"Take it out of your pocket." This is what the store detective said to me as he held me up in a food emporium on a downtown street the other morning.

"Take what out of my pocket?" I asked.

"That white package of cheese you just took," he said.

"What sort of a holdup is this?" I asked. "Go ahead, search me."

This embryo Sherlock Holmes then said he would meet me at the door but when I reached the door there was no detective either to search me or apologize, so I went to my room to think it over.

It can happen in Victoria so if any tourist 65 years old who has spent much of the last six months in hospital with a heart condition gets the same treatment as I in a Victoria store, he will have my fullest sympathy.

On the Bandwagon

A recent item attributed to Claude Jodoin as a Labor Day message intimates the need for a revision of Canada's system of social security and I inwardly marvel at his suggestions and I quote: "There is need in Canada today for a full-scale revision of the whole system of social security so that we can more clearly define our present position and plan for the future: the present $65-a-month pension for elderly people over 70 years should be increased to $75 and paid at 65 years, and there should be built-in protection for pensioners against price increases;" end of quote.

As I size up our financial problems which lead to austerity measures, too many people already are riding the bandwagon and not sufficient are exerting any efforts to haul the load.

A Kindly Action

I would like to thank the young lady who so kindly held my head off the pavement when I fainted for a little while until an ambulance came to take me to hospital. Such kindness should not go unnoticed. Everyone was good to me. Victoria is a wonderful place. Needless to say I fully recovered my health. I had a heart attack, as I am 78. I feel fine now.

Splendor Is Keynote

Commonwealth Conference In Palace Full of History

LONDON (CP) — Brushing aside the cliches, it can be said that the Commonwealth's date with destiny is taking place in a building simply reeking with history.

The setting for the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers is, in fact, a royal palace. It is called Marlborough House, after the first duke of that name, and ornate splendor is the keynote.

Conference sessions are being held in what used to be the red drawing room. The first thing that strikes the eye is the long, low, oval table of red African wood, so highly polished that delegates feel they are in a hall of mirrors.

There is a chenille-weave carpet weighing three-quarters of a ton and stretching 55 feet. There are glittering blue damask drapes, crystal chandeliers and pink brocade walls with gilt enrichments.

The sense of Louis XIV magnificence is emphasized elsewhere by a black marble staircase and massive wall paintings recalling victories by Marlborough, ancestor of Sir Winston Churchill and one of England's greatest soldiers.

Mural decorations, including scenes of the battle of Malplaquet, are by Louis XIV's godson, Louis Laguerre. There are elaborate ceiling paintings by Orazio Gentileschi, Italian painter who died in 1647.

Stop-Go Financing 'Good for Inflation'

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — Central bankers the world over feel they are being saddled with too heavy a load in the battle against inflation while getting little or no help from governments, Lord Cobbold said Monday.

The ex-governor of the Bank of England expressed this grievance to the royal commission on banking and finance as he underlined the need for constant interlocking of monetary and government fiscal policies.

AT ALL LEVELS

Avoiding specific reference to any country, Lord Cobbold said monetary and fiscal policies—the taxing, spending and borrowing actions at all levels of government — must be complementary, or at least not contradictory. Too often they were at odds.

It makes no sense to drive along a highway with one foot on the accelerator and the other on the brake, he said. Yet that was what happened when monetary policy is restrictive and fiscal policy expansionist.

FIRST WITNESS

Lord Cobbold, who retired as Britain's chief central banker last year and is due to become Lord Chamberlain Jan. 1 next, was the first witness to appear as the commission renewed its public hearings for a three-week run.

Dr. M. W. Holtrop, governor of The Netherlands central bank, is to appear today as the commission continues to concentrate on central banking. Other witnesses this week will include E. M. Bernstein, Washington government consultant, and Swedish monetary economist Prof. Erik Lundberg.

TOWERS THERE

The commission will hold another three weeks of hearings in October and then adjourn until early January, when it will hear Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada, officials of the Canadian Bankers' Association and the finance department, and the inspector-general of banks, C. F. Elderkin.

An observer at Monday's hearing was Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada until 1956 and the predecessor to James E. Coyne, who resigned last year after an unsuccessful government bid to have Parliament fire him.

Messrs. Towers and Coyne are to testify before the commission late next month.

11th-Hour Pact Stops Walkout

An 11th-hour agreement between towboat owners and employees was responsible for cancellation of a strike scheduled to start yesterday.

"Work continues," said Richard Mahoney, spokesman for the 28-member B.C. Tow Boat Owners' Association.

James Thompson, spokesman for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, said the agreement has to be ratified by referendum vote of the members. "It is as good as could be expected under the circumstances."

ALMOST A YEAR

Negotiations have been going on for almost a year.

The agreement for the 350-member Local 400 calls for $15 a month increase Oct. 1, 1962, with a further $10 a month Oct. 1, 1963.

Local 400 deckhands and cooks are now paid $300 and $307.50 a month respectively.

$8 INCREASE

The agreement for the 300-member Local 425, tow boat engineers, calls for an immediate increase of $8 a month, a three per cent increase Oct. 1, 1962, and an additional three per cent Oct. 1, 1963.

Engineers' salaries now range from $370 ot $533 a month.

About 150 Victoria crewmen employed by Island Tug and Barge Ltd. are members of the union.

TNT Research Blast Shocks Alberta City

MEDICINE HAT (CP)—Shock waves from a five-ton TNT blast Monday at the federal government research station north of here smashed a plate glass window in a Medicine Hat store 30 miles away.

A. M. Pennie, superintendent of the Suffield research station, said a combination of "strange" weather conditions resulted in the shock wave travelling farther than expected.

No one was injured when the window blew out of a downtown store and smashed on a sidewalk. It was the only damage reported.

Thalidomide Killing 'Needs Jury Trial'

LIEGE, Belgium (UPI) — The public prosecutor Monday asked for trial by jury for five persons accused of killing an infant girl born armless apparently because her mother took the drug thalidomide during pregancy.

The five are the mother, Susan Coipel, her husband Jean, her mother and sister and the family doctor. The prosecutor said Mrs. Coipel poisoned the baby with barbiturates mixed with honey and milk.

Police said the five held a conference before the act, the doctor prescribed the barbiturates and Mrs. Coupel's mother bought them.

Piracy Issue

Oil Scandal Witnesses Silent, Lost

DALLAS (UPI) — One witness pleaded the fifth amendment 43 times Monday and 16 other witnesses, including two state judges, failed to appear at a new round of hearings into alleged piracy of oil in the Texas hot oil scandals.

Six of the witnesses sent medical excuses to a state House committee probing charges of widespread bribery of officials and theft of millians of dollars worth of oil through slanted-well drilling in the rich East Texas field.

J. S. McCubbin of Gladewater, an oil operator, pleaded the fifth amendment 43 times, once when asked whether he was a civic leader.

Wife Owns Place

People All Over —Hubby Takes It

GRAND FORKS, B.C. (CP)—Bill Podovennikoff says strangers keep coming into his house for boiling water, to use the telephone, to sleep—things like that.

All this clomping around, Bill says, upsets his sleep. After all, the house is only 24 feet wide and 32 feet long.

CLOMPING AROUND

Then there's the outside. More than 700 are clomping around out there, and sleeping in his barns, erecting tents in his fields, digging communal toilets, singing hymns, making his roads all muddy.

But the wife says it's okay—and she owns the place.

INDEFINITE TIME

By Mrs. Podovennikoff's choosing, Bill is host for an indefinite time to 750 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors who are marching to Agassiz in the Fraser Valley to be near many of their menfolk locked up there in prison.

Because Mrs. Podovennikoff has the title to the house and land and chose to open her doors to the Sons, Bill had to comply, or leave.

I'LL TAKE IT

"At first we argued about it, but now we get along," Bill said Monday. "I know that I must take it or walk out. I'll take it."

The Freedomites moved onto Bill's land Sunday when their bid to stay at John Verigin's farm across the road was hotly rejected. Verigin is leader of the Orthodox Doukhobors, of which sect Podovennikoff is also a member.

HAVEN'T ASKED

"They haven't offered to pay me and I haven't asked for money," Bill said Monday.

One of his chores during the day was to drive 90 miles to pick up a couple of cows so the children in the trek could have fresh milk.

"I guess I will supply the hay," Bill said.

Eight children and six adults sleep and eat in the Podovennikoff house. The others eat beside their tents or in farm buildings.

Adams Haul Only 800,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Fraser River sockeye salmon catch this season for Canadian convention waters is expected to total about 800,000 fish, way down from the expected record catch in a big volume Adams River cycle.

By comparison, the season's catch to Sept. 4, 1958, was 3,846,000 fish.

B.C. Power Moves To Protect Papers

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Power Corporation Monday applied to the B.C. Supreme Court for a ruling to deny provincial government lawyers access to documents of the former B.C. electric power utility which the government took over in August, 1961.

The application, made by counsel Douglas McK. Brown before Chief Justice Sherwood Lett, said alternatively the court should rule that both parties in the case should have equal access to the documents.

B.C. Power is challenging before the court the validity of the government's takeover legislation under which a total of $172,000,000 was paid for B.C.E. The former utility now is merged with the B.C. Hydro Authority into a central power authority, the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

The application came as the hearings resumed for their 58th day.

Chief Justice Lett said he saw merit in Mr. Brown's argument but asked for some authority on whether the corporation could be granted complete inspection as requested by Mr. Brown.

Mr. Brown told the court a receiver had been appointed for B.C.E. for the purpose of the litigation and therefore the documents remain in the possession of the court. Yet the defence—in this case the provincial attorney-general, the B.C. Electric Company and the Royal Trust Company — had freedom to "rout around in the files."

"It has reached the stage that we are prejudiced beyond measure by being denied access," said Mr. Brown.

"We don't seek possession. We seek inspection."

Disciplinary Action

Liberal MP Queries Post Office Levies

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen Otto, York East Liberal member of the Commons, said Monday he intends in Parliament to question the post office department's system of levying fines against employees.

In a newspaper advertisement, Mr. Otto asked postal employees to report to him circumstances of fines against them.

In an interview, he listed among many complaints from his own postal worker constituents:

A letter carrier who was fined a half-day's pay for improper appearance after he has worn a brown shoe lace in a black shoe.

A carrier who put a letter in the wrong box was demoted one job category, protested to a superior and was further demoted.

In Ottawa R. D. Boyd, director of personnel for the post office department, said penalties are levied as salary reductions, not direct fines.

He said that a local postmaster has the authority to excuse an offender if conditions warrant.

The penalty for most offences is a salary reduction of $10 for one month. This would apply to such misdemeanors as drinking on the job, or absence without permission.

A second similar offence usually brings a $10-a-month reduction in salary for three months, and after a third offence the reduction is spread over six months.

Mr. Boyd said several hundred of the department's 40,000 employees across Canada are subject to such disciplinary measures each year.

Dr. Charles Bloom, born in Czechoslavakia and a resident of Glasgow for 25 years, toured Canada after attending the International Congress of Radiology, attended by 2,000 doctors from all over the world in Montreal Aug. 26 to 31. He visited hospitals in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver.

Accompanied by his wife, he will travel home by way of San Francisco and New York.

Dr. Bloom, who flew to Calgary and then took the train to see the western scenery, said he is highly impressed by both Canada's scenery and the high standard of radiology and other branches of medicine in Canada.

Free Ride to Market Ahead for Canada?

A Liberal MP yesterday predicted British entry into the Common Market will pave the way for a great new Commonwealth including the U.S.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Dr. John Davis of Coast Capilano said British entry plus proposed U.S. moves would give Canadian goods easier access to the markets of Western Europe — and the U.S.

KENNEDY POLICY

Any Canadian who opposes British entry should realize he is in conflict with the policy of the Kennedy administration, Dr. Davis said.

It is asking Congress to authorize negotiation of great tariff cuts on goods traded between the U.S. and the Market.

FREE RIDE

Under world tariff provisions, any concessions the U.S. and Europe give each other must also apply to Canada. Thus Canada would get a "free ride" into both U.S and European markets.

Agreements between the U.S. and the six nations in the Market would probably involve mostly commodities which Canada does not export, Dr. Davis said.

LARGE VARIETY

But if Britain entered, and the Scandinavian countries followed, Market-U.S. tariff reductions would be likely to embrace a large variety of goods, including many Canada would like to sell.

In her negotiations, Britain, which must import most of her food, seeks the least possible tariff penalties on foodstuffs entering the Market, he said. "In that, she is on our side."

GAIN ACCESS

Canada would gain access for her food and raw materials to a greater market — western Europe — than the U.S., which produces food and raw materials herself.

With the growing economic union of western Europe, Europeans also were looking to political union, said Dr. Davis.

TWO PILLARS

The policy of the Kennedy administration envisages "two pillars — the United States of Western Europe and the United States of America — in defence of the free world," he said.

"We can look beyond the current negotiations to a new, larger, more successful and more imaginative Commonwealth of Nations," to include western Europe, the U.S. and present Commonwealth members.

FREER TRADE

Canada should "get in on the act" and join the Kennedy drive for a larger United States of Western Europe and for freer trade between western Europe and America.

Dr. Davis said Canada "found herself" and became a dominion in a period of history in some ways comparable to the present. Many thought Britain then had cast off her colonies.

"It did not destroy a Commonwealth."

Purse from Barbados

Deadly Gift Sent To City Child

A deadly gift that kills in 12 days was received yesterday by three-year-old Nancy Lewis of 4301 Blenkinsop.

The youngster's mother, Mrs. Mack Lewis, identified the lethal content of a package, sent by a relative in Eastern Canada, through a story in Sunday's Colonist telling of poisonous beans used as beads.

The brightly-colored Jequirity beans can cause death within 12 days if a single bean is chewed.

The gift was made of various seeds in the form of a child's purse. It was picked up in Barbados.

Mr. Lewis said he got "a real shock" when he opened the package.

About two dozen of the beads were used as decorations on the purse.

Earlier, three strings of the virulent beans used as beads were discovered in Victoria.

The tiny bean, about the size and shape of a lady bug, is bright red with a black spot at one end.

Two large conventions, one from the U.S., will be held here later this month as the Empress Hotel continues its bid to lengthen Victoria's tourist season.

Charles Moore, Empress convention manager, said 450 to 500 Americans from the West will be here Sept. 16 to 18 for the National Association of Electric Distributors convention.

The National Dairy Council of Canada will hold its first convention in Victoria at the Empress Sept. 24 to 26.

Some 400 dairymen and wives will be treated to a miniature logging display, salmon barbecue and dance in the Sooke community Sept. 25, put on by the Sooke Community Association. They will also be given a tour of HMCS Naden.

Put Parliament on TV Socreds Will Demand

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — Gilbert Rondeau, Social Credit member of the House of Commons for the Quebec constituency of Shefford, says that when Parliament opens Sept. 27 the Social Credit party will demand that debates be televised one hour a day over the CBC network.

"The people of the country then will be able to see 200 beautiful noodles (belles nouilles)," said Mr. Rondeau.

"The people will see four or five spokesmen for the two old parties participating in the debates while the other members spend their times in the corridors, playing cards or having a drink in their rooms."

Kinsmen Fall Fair 'Biggest'

The biggest agricultural and industrial fair on Vancouver Island is the way Kinsmen describe their fall fair scheduled for Sept. 24 to 29 at Esquimalt Municipal Sports Centre.

But it won't be all vegetables and layer cakes. The show business angle is also being emphasized.

Recording star Jimmie Rodgers will perform every night with the Fairmount Singers, a group of four singing guitarists. While they appear in the arena, comic violinist Baron Bertalan Buika will mimic famous violinists and play two violins at once in the curling rink.

SPACE CAPSULE

Fair officials have asked President Kennedy to lend them Col. John Glenn's space capsule for the exhibition.

JAYCOPTER

The Jaycopter—the only one of its kind in the world—will add a unique note to the fair. A full fledged helicopter, it is mounted on a counter-balanced boom, and can be raised to a height of 90 feet in simulated helicopter flight. It will accommodate eight adults or 12 children at a time. In addition to the Jaycopter there are five other midway rides.

Still another unusual attraction is the airhouse. This is a tent in the shape of a hemisphere, supported by compressed air. It will house a tea room, booths and a fashion show.

FIREWORKS TOO

Exhibits will be displayed in the arena, the curling rink, and in 14 large tents outside. Classifications for competition include everything from Indian exhibits to cage birds and from embroidery to stuffed toys. There will be fireworks, contests, fashion shows and hair styling.

Prizes will total around $5,000. The grand prize is a Ford Galaxie.

The usual refreshment stands will be in evidence and there is adequate parking.

Lieutenant Governor G. R. Pearkes will open the fair.

Tiny Thief Wriggles To Cigarettes

A "very small" thief squeezed through an eight-inch opening at the rear of Len's Grocery, 1024 Finlayson, and stole 30 cartons of cigarettes valued at more than $100, during the week-end.

The culprit broke a rear window and snake-hipped his way through eight-inch bars on it.

The cigarettes were in a store room at the rear of the store.

Police said the thief must have been "very small."

Speedway Money Stolen

The entire weekend's proceeds from the Western Speedway stock-car races—$370—were stolen from a parked car Saturday night.

Kenneth Kightly, 560 Agnes, a member of the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association, said he had parked the car on the Gorge Hotel lot with the money in a metal box in the trunk.

The theft was believed to have taken place some time before midnight.

Buccaneer Judged Best Of Dog Show

A German Shepherd, Cathy's Buccaneer, was judged best in show at the final day Saturday of the all-breed dog show and obedience trials of the Vancouver Island Dog Fanciers Association.

The winning dog was also best Canadian-bred.

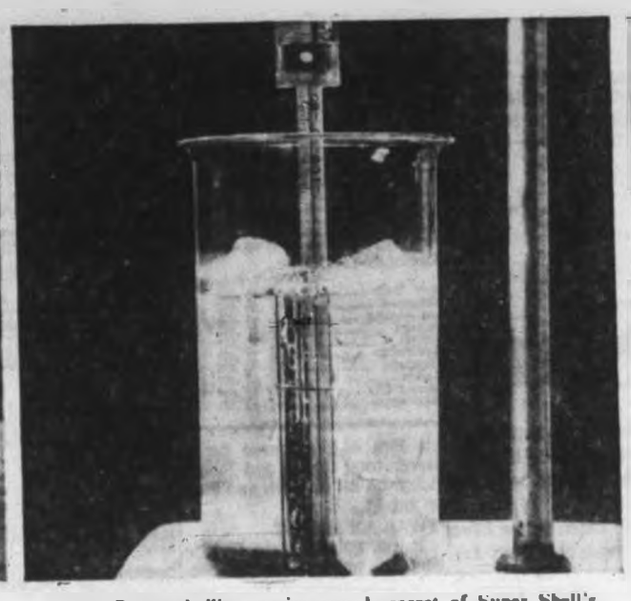
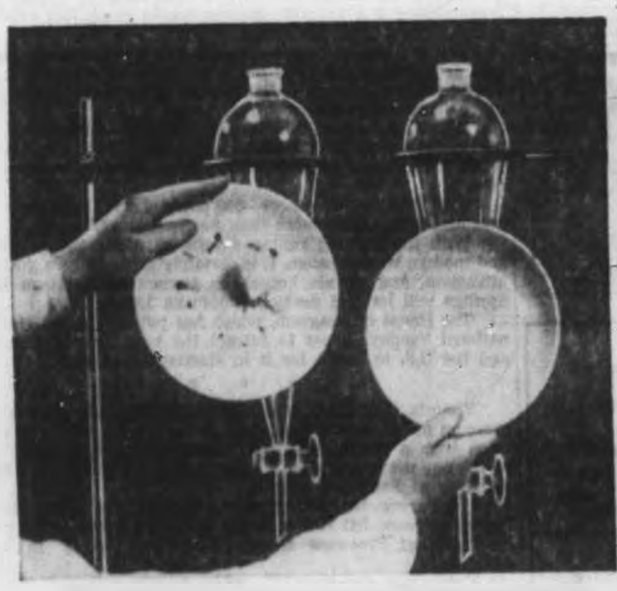
1 World champion driver uses Super Shell. Today's blend includes vital power ingredient. Phil Hill (above, in Ferrari sports racing car) is the World Grand Prix racing champion. Hill relies on Super Shell. One important reason: power. Today's Super Shell contains "cat-cracked" gasoline—a power ingredient made by cracking heavier petroleum molecules into lighter, livelier ones. It works to give you the power you need for top performance.



2 Butane boiling on ice reveals secret of Super Shell's quick starts. The butane bubbling in our picture is rapidly changing to vapour—the way water turns to steam when it boils. Butane's ability to vaporize at low temperatures helps Super Shell gasoline give you quick starts on coldest mornings. Gasoline must vaporize to start your engine—and the colder the weather, the more difficult it is for gasoline to vaporize. With butane, fast vaporization—and quick starts.

3-4 Prairie tests at 35° below check Super Shell's fast warm-up ingredient. Super Shell contains mixed pentanes to help speed the warm-up process. A cold engine can waste fuel. Wear faster, too. In chilly, damp weather, Super Shell also contains a carburetor defroster to prevent stalls caused by carburetor icing. Picture shows Super Shell being checked for top performance in Manitoba—at 35° below zero.



5 "Plate" test shows how Super Shell's gum preventive works. In time, gum can form in even the purest gasoline. If gum forms in your engine, it can cause trouble. Shell scientists fight gum formation with skilful processing and a gum preventive. In the lab, two gasolines were evaporated to check for gum. Raw unprocessed gasoline without gum preventive deposited gum (left). Processed gasoline with Super Shell's gum preventive (right) left virtually no trace of gum.

6 Hot piston shows how Shell's TCP* counteracts harmful deposits. All cars develop combustion chamber deposits. Picture shows two deposits on a sizzling piston. Glowing deposit at left has not been neutralized with TCP. In your engine, glowing deposits can ignite fuel too soon—causing roughness, power loss. Deposit on right has been "fire-proofed" by TCP. With TCP in action, no power-robbing glow. Helps your engine respond smoothly and powerfully.

7-8 Stethoscope helps Shell scientists check effect of two Super Shell anti-knock ingredients. Shell scientists know that the slightest hint of knock could mean trouble inside your engine. Super Shell fights knock with an anti-knock mix so effective that a teaspoonful per gallon can boost anti-knock rating five points. Heavy alkanes, another Super Shell ingredient, are noted for controlling knock in hot engines at high speeds better than anything else yet available.

9 Super Shell's mileage ingredient delivers a mileage bonus of 4.32 percent. Super Shell's mileage ingredient is called Platformate. Shell scientists test it regularly—in different types of cars, in different places. Here's how they ran the tests shown above. Exactly 250 c.c. (about half a pint) of gasoline blended without Platformate was fed into the test car. The car was started, accelerated to 30 miles per hour, then held there until fuel ran out and it coasted to a stop. Distance travelled: 6186 feet—left. Then the test was repeated (right), using the same fuel with Platformate added. Exact same total amount of fuel. Same car. Same speed. Same driver. Same conditions. This time the distance travelled was 6454 feet. 4.32 per cent further with Platformate. Or more than four extra miles in every hundred. A nice little bonus.

Australia's Rod Laver, who yesterday accomplished the tennis version of the "grand slam" by winning the U.S. men's singles, talks it over with Don Budge after the final. Speaking Briefly

Laver Gets His Slam

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Rod Laver, the little Australian lefthander, defeated Roy Emerson, another Aussie, 6-2, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4 Monday and won the national tennis championship for the coveted grand slam and a pot of gold that could go as high as $150,000.

Margaret Smith, another Australian, won the women's title with a 9-7, 6-4 victory over Darlene Hard, the sobbing defending champion from Long Beach, Calif.

The 158-pound Laver now has won the Australian, French, Wimbledon and United States championships — a feat accomplished only by Don Budge in 1938. It could result in a professional contract after the Davis Cup challenge round in December for anywhere from $75,000 to $150,000.

Laver is the seventh straight Australian to grab the championship. In fact, no native-born American has been in the final since Tony Trabert won the crown in 1955.

Laver and Emerson now have met eight times this year. Laver has won six of the matches. The victory was sweet revenge for Laver because he lost the final in straight sets to Emerson here last year.

Vancouver in Lead After Overtime Win

VANCOUVER—Held scoreless through the second half, Vancouver's Mann Cup champs came from behind in overtime here last night and beat New Westminster, 8-6, to tie their best-of-seven Western Canada senior lacrosse final at two games each.

Vancouver led 4-0 at the quarter and 5-3 at the half, but New Westminster tied the score in the third quarter and neither club could score in the fourth.

Wayne Pecknold got the winner with less than a minute remaining, and Bobby Marsh scored with six seconds to play. It was the second goal of the night for both.

Brampton In

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Brampton Ramblers Monday night won the Eastern Canada senior lacrosse final with a 6-4 win over Brooklin Hillcrests.

Ramblers now move into the Canadian final for the Mann Cup against the winners of the New Westminster-Vancouver Western final.

Brampton took the best-of seven series 4-1.

UBC Crew Last

LUCERNE, Switzerland (CP) — German oarsmen almost completely dominated the world rowing championships, which ended here Sunday.

Five of the seven gold medals went to the Germans. They won the coxed and uncoxed pairs, the coxed and uncoxed fours and the eights before an enthusiastic crowd of 45,000. They missed only in the single sculls, won by Russia's Viatcheslaw Ivanov, Olympic champion, and in the double sculls, won by Rene Duhamel and Bernard Monnereau of France.

Canada's eight-oared crew from University of British Columbia, the only Canadian finalist, finished last in the big event.

The German crew won in a time of five minutes 50.83 seconds, followed by Russia, France, Italy, Australia and Canada. The UBC crew was timed in six minutes, .15 seconds.

Beaten Brampton Threatens to Quit Unless Change of Referees Ordered

By JIM TAYLOR

Brampton Excelsiors, fighting mad over what they feel is unfair officiating, last night threatened to walk out on the Minto Cup final unless there is a change in referees for the rest of the series. Coach Larry Kendall made the decision at Memorial Arena last night, minutes after Victoria Shamrocks had tied the best-of-seven Canadian junior lacrosse final at 2-2 with a 12-7 victory.

"I don't cry about refereeing," he said. "But this was ridiculous. They can keep Jackie Northup, but if Sid Greenwood and Dave Unwin are here to referee Wednesday night this team won't leave the dressing room. That's final."

Specifically, Kendall charged that the officials were calling one way for Shamrocks, another for Excelsiors. Brampton drew 87 minutes in penalties compared to 33 for Shamrocks, and the Victoria club won on the strength of eight goals scored on the power play.

Kendall appeared to have a legitimate beef, although perhaps not for the reasons he cited. The officiating was not good, but the biggest mistake made was in not cracking down early. The chippy stuff got by at first, and gradually the game was out of hand. At the end, it was more of a gang rumble than a lacrosse game.

TOO MUCH DIFFERENCE

No matter how you slice it, there was no big difference in the amount of rough tactics used by the two clubs. Certainly there wasn't a difference of 54 minutes. Kendall's ultimatum might be a bit rash, but he had reason to complain.

But by throwing down his challenge, he has given series officials a Hobson's choice. Do they back up their officials, or do they change referees and thereby give in to a threat by one team? Late last night, no decision had been reached.

The game itself was good when the clubs were at full strength. Unfortunately that wasn't often. Shamrocks were full value for the win, but there was no real way to compare the clubs with all the power-play scoring.

TURNING POINT

Turning point in the game and boiling point for Kendall arrived simultaneously.

It was 9-5 for the Shamrocks, who had just scored three straight goals to open the third quarter, when Tom Conlin snatched up a loose ball in front of the Victoria net and scored. But Unwin disallowed the goal, ruling that Conlin played the ball in the crease.

Conlin got a penalty, Rod Kilduff scored on the power play, and instead of being 9-6 it was 10-5. From there things just degenerated into a series of shoving matches and a couple of dandy brawls.

Both fights started when Brampton made it 12-7 on a goal by Don Arthurs. The goal was the signal for two slugging matches, between Victoria goalie Norm Nestman and Jim Richardson, and Glen Vickers of Shamrocks and John MacCauley. Richardson drew a major, a misconduct, and a match penalty which will force him to sit out a game. The others got majors.

Forget the Sluggers Maury More Exciting

Mickey Mantle last night became the seventh player in major league baseball to hit 400 home runs, Willie Mays hit his 43rd of the season to bring his lifetime total to 362, Ed Matthews hit the 396th of his career, Hank Aaron got his 39th of the season for a career total of 292 and Frank Robinson hit his 35th and 36th to get to 238.

'TWAS AN ERROR

It was quite a night for the sluggers, but stealing the spotlight was Maury Wills, a 160-pound shortstop who four or five years ago was turned back to Los Angeles Dodgers by Detroit Tigers.

Wills, who started the season with only one major league home run and managed to add six to the total this season, is after a record no modern baseball player was thought capable of breaking — Ty Cobb's mark of 96 stolen bases, set away back in 1915.

On a hitting streak which has seen him hit safely in seven of his last eight trips to the plate, Wills is turning singles into doubles by promptly stealing second base.

He stole three more bases last night as the Dodgers beat Chicago Cubs, 8-1, to stay a half game ahead of San Francisco Giants in the National League race.

Wills, who has stolen 11 bases in his last four games and 28 in his last 23 games, now has 89 for the season. And 17 games left in which to get the eight he needs for a new record.

Helping Wills win was Tommy Davis, who hit a grand-slam home run, and Don Drysdale, who eased to his 24th win in 31 decisions with three-hit pitching for the eight innings he worked.

Steady pitching by Billy O'Dell (17-12) and home runs by Mays and Chuck Hiller gave the Giants a 4-1 win over Pittsburgh Pirates. San Francisco outfielder Felipe Alou singled twice and walked twice to run a streak to nine consecutive hits, one short of the league record.

In the American League, the New York Yankees may win by default. The defending champions took their eighth doubleheader loss of the season on Sunday but by winning last night, managed to end up with their lead boosted by a half game to three and a half games.

TWINS ONE-HITTED

Both the runer-up Minnesota Twins and Los Angeles Angels lost Sunday while Boston Red Sox took the Yankees twice. Last night Twins got themselves one-hitted by Dean Chance of the Angels and lost, 5-0, while the Yankees got by Detroit, 3-1, behind Ralph Terry's fine pitching.

Chance had a no-hitter with one out in the seventh inning, lost it when Zoilo Versalles beat out an infield bounder.

THE PALMER METHOD

EVER TRY A 6-WOOD?

Ladies sometimes do not feel confident with a long iron in their hands. If this is true, the 6-wood may be the answer. It has about the same loft as a 3-iron (see illustration) and most women find it an easier club to swing.

The only thing to remember is that the 6-wood swing is a sweeping action, rather than a down-and-through shot as with the 3-iron. Play it just slightly ahead of your stance-center and plan on a fairly high finish. You should take little or no divot in front of the ball.

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS—A new international golf event is being staged here today on a newly-designed course, featuring Toronto pros Al Balding and George Knudsen against Jim Ferree and Dave Marr of the United States.

Balding is perhaps second only to Stan Leonard as Canada's top pro at the present time and Knudsen is an up-and-coming performer who holds the championships of Panama and Venezuela. Marr is the reigning Seattle Open champion and Ferree's big feat was winning the rich B.C. Centennial at Point Grey four years ago, when he staggered everyone, including himself, with a record round of 61.

If the weather is not too wet the four will find the new Harrison nine-hole course a splendid test of golf. It is 3,000 yards long and can by stretched to 3,500 yards by using back tees, making it a valuable addition to the many fine courses which British Columbia already enjoys.

It was designed by Norman Woods, one of Canada's four golf architects and a pupil for many years of the great Stan Thompson, who designed Banff, Jasper, Capilano and many other famous Canadian courses.

Woods, here for this week's opening celebrations, is particularly pleased that he had to destroy only one worthwhile tree, although each of the nine holes is completely new.

"Old Harrison was short—600 yards shorter than the new one, and it was little more than a cow pasture," he said.

With its new big rolling greens, carefully placed traps and modern water system, it is certainly going to be a golfing attraction, and Woods hopes the owners of Harrison Hot Springs will let him develop it into an 18-hole test.

The House of Seagram, which has put up the new International Trophy, hopes to attract the best pros in Canada and the U.S. to battle for it in Harrison each year.

* * *

Victoria Golf Club, which already has an interesting museum of golf equipment of other days, was presented last week with a Schenectady centre-shafted putter, believed to be the one used by Walter J. Travis when he won the British Amateur at Sandwich in 1904.

Col. Parker, the club secretary, accepted the putter from Peter Lawrence, 541 Rithet Street, who says it was given him by Travis at Prestwick shortly after his victory in the Amateur.

Travis was the first U.S. golfer to win a British championship, and his putter, which played a tremendous part in his win, came in for wholesale criticism because of its revolutionary design.

Poor Mr. Travis was an insignificantly-built little fellow who played in what was regarded as business clothes in those days. The British could scarcely believe it as this short-hitting little foreigner knocked out one British giant after another and finally swept aside Ted Blackwell, the mighty St. Andrean believed to be the longest hitter of the gutty ball ever seen.

Travis thought the reception he received in Britain was so poor that he did not go back to defend his title, and to add insult to injury the R. and A. in 1909 declared all centre-shaft, mallett-headed or wry-necked clubs illegal. This rule they kept in force until 1951.

If the new Victoria club relic is indeed the one Travis used, it is an historic piece of the game to be ranked with Bobby Jones' Calamity Jane.

Now in the care of the Victoria club, the putter is in remarkable preservation and bares the imprint of the makers, A. G. Spalding. Although the face is slightly concave, I have no doubt it would still putt very well today—in the proper hands, of course.

Second Stage Produces Two-Way Tie

Leading contenders in the Weller-Regan rifle shooting competition fired annually at Heals Range, emerged as Eileen Learoyd, RCASC, and Cadet Ron Buckler, PPCLI, who shot for Canada at Bisley this year.

Both Buckler and Mrs. Learoyd had totals of 183 in the first two stages of the match. Third stage will be fired in a few weeks at 900 and 1,000 yards.

In Saturday's stage, fired from 300 and 600 yards, Cpl. Walker with 45, 45 for 90 was the winner, followed by Mrs. Learoyd with 46, 44—90. Duncan Payne, Canadian Scottish, was third with 88.

Commissioner Recommends Remedial Measures

Loss of Puntledge Fisheries Blamed on B.C. Hydro

By TERRY HAMMOND

B.C. Hydro and Power Authority will be billed for $560,000 to $815,000 worth of fisheries remedial projects at Puntledge River on Vancouver Island, if the provincial government accepts a recommendation from public inquiry commissioner Dr. H. F. Angus.

Dr. Angus, chairman of the British Columbia public utilities commission, advised early construction of works recommended by the federal fisheries department and said B.C. Hydro should foot the bill.

The power authority has estimated the cost at $815,000 and the department of fisheries at $560,000. Dr. Angus wrote in his report that "a realistic estimate of costs . . . lies somewhere in between."

The PUC chairman was named under the Public Inquiries Act to conduct an inquiry into the Puntledge River controversy last December. Hearings were held in Vancouver and at Courtenay. The report was filed with the government April 27 and released without comment by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black yesterday.

Dr. Angus ruled that under the terms of the federal Fisheries Act a private owner would be required to remedy whatever damage the power installation had incurred to the Puntledge fishery.

"There is no reason why a provincial government engaged through a Crown agency in what has often been a field for private enterprise, should be any less considerate of the legitimate interests of third parties," the commissioner wrote in apparent reference to the power authority's reluctance to undertake the work. "Ability to operate cheaply by disregarding these interests is not among the many advantages claimed for public ownership."

The report describes as "manifestly unjust" the notion that fishermen and persons with investments dependent on fishing should suffer loss simply because a river might have a higher power value than fish value.

"Their loss cannot be passed over as part of the price of progress," wrote Dr. Angus. "A government should be even more reluctant than a private owner to incur a charge of injustice."

Throughout his report the commissioner indicated that aside from the principle of justice for those dependent on the Puntledge fishery the benefits to accrue from the remedial project outweighed the cost. He placed probable annual cost of the two projects destined to restore the fishery at $82,350 and estimated annual benefits at $83,000 for commercial salmon fishing, $15,000 for steelhead fishing, $26,150 in additional power generated and an indeterminate amount for the value of sport salmon fishing.

The net benefit after cost would be about $60,000 annually, he estimated. Dr. Angus said he failed to find a case to justify a provincial request that the federal government pay part of the cost. He scored the B.C. Power Commission (which expanded the Puntledge hydro project in 1955) for the absence of adequate consultation with the federal fisheries department at the time of construction.

"If there had been closer collaboration with the department of fisheries before the work was put in hand less might have been left to trial and error."

Dr. Angus summarized fisheries department evidence as an early run reduction from 3,063 fish before the development to 1,127 fish afterwards. The fisheries department submitted evidence that the early spring salmon run on the Puntledge had been decimated by three causes: (1) Spawning fish trying to enter the powerhouse tailrace; (2) fry entering the turbines; (3) a deposit of silt over the downstream spawning beds.

In order to restore the run the department asks for installation of fish collection facilities below the powerhouse, a means of transporting fish to the upper river, installation of a screening system to keep fry out of the turbines.

He called for "cordial and intimate collaboration" between power and fisheries interests and suggested that a logical first step towards this end might be for B.C. Hydro to employ one or more fish biologists of its own to maintain contact with the federal department and the B.C. fish and game branch.

'Victory Over Myself'

INSTALMENT XIII

Before he won the heavyweight title, Floyd Patterson had to halt his toughest opponent—himself. Here is a new instalment of Patterson's own story, "Victory Over Myself."

By FLOYD PATTERSON

When I went into training at the Spring Rock Country Club in Spring Valley, N.Y., for my third fight with Ingemar, the actual signing for the bout was many, many months away.

I trained hard and long for this third fight, but as I hit on the canvas in the first round and looked up a Johannsson I kept asking myself if I was going to be knocked down seven times again. I was disgusted with myself. After that I fought crazy, wild. I couldn't get myself together. I didn't know if I ought to press him, box him, or what.

I went out for that first round with my mind a blank. I survived the two first-round knockdowns and put him down in the same round himself. But between rounds, although I became more and more determined, I still felt bewildered.

"I can't find it. The style. I can't find the style to fight him." I cried to my handlers in my corner.

They were no great help, although they all tried to help me. Every one of them started to tell me something different. Their voices were coming at me, yet I felt all alone. To understand this you've got to appreciate what it is like when all the lights go out all over the arena and then there are only you and your opponent in the centre of the ring.

I guess when I made up my mind to gamble, take the chance of getting hit with his right hand in order to get to him, I reached a decision I had reached many, many years before at Withwyck.

Finally Took the Plunge

There was this high wall. I climbed up on it and stood looking down at the ground, and the longer I stood there the higher I seemed to be off the ground and the more afraid I became. But the more my fear grew, the more I wanted to jump. I finally got my courage together, closed my eyes, and leaped off that wall.

I didn't close my eyes against Ingemar, but I did go in after him, taking punches I ordinarily would not and should not have taken. I fought badly, but I fought well enough to finally get to him. I had opportunities, but I didn't take advantage of them. I was happy to win, but I wasn't proud of the way it was accomplished.

If I have to sum up my life, being a champion isn't enough in itself; there are obligations that go with whatever position, wealth and celebrity I've attained. There are obligations to the sport, obligations to our country, obligations to my race, to my family and to myself.

I Take Them All Seriously

I take every one of them seriously because I know what I still would be if the Lord hadn't pointed me toward the ring, given me the opportunity to do something with whatever natural talent I possessed, and allow me to come in contact with the people who could bring that talent out of me. Boxing is supposed to be a dirty business, but it has made me clean and enabled me to do some good for others. If I was able to do nothing else in this world, I must say that seeing my mother the kind of a woman she is today is enough to make me happy.

When I look at my four children and realize the kind of life they will be able to lead, I know that all the time and effort I've put into being what I am has been worth it, and I would put in more if I had to keep it that way. They'll go to school and live in nice places and meet nice people and not have to roam the streets as I did as a youngster. My many brothers and sisters will have advantages my poor parents could not have given them, as much as they wanted to.

I'm training my brother Raymond to be a fighter because he wants to be one, not because I am one. I'll manage him when he's ready to turn professional because I think I've learned enough about that side of the sport to let him benefit from my education in it. It would be nice if, for the first time in the history of boxing, one brother could succeed another as the heavyweight champion of the world, but if Raymond doesn't, it will not be because he didn't try hard enough or I didn't have my heart in his ambitions.

GETS BIG CHANCE

Bill Wild of Victoria, who has won several major road races this year, has been selected to represent B.C., along with Vancouver's Jack Ferguson, in the Canadian British Empire Games cycling trials. Trials are scheduled next Sunday in Toronto and in Montreal the following Sunday. At present the big problem is raising funds to send Wild on the trip, and anyone wishing to assist in any way is asked to phone Nancy Gosper at EV 4-8292.

Bombers Again Out-Tough Ti-Cats

HAMILTON (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats met Monday night for the first time since the Bombers won the Grey Cup last year in overtime, and the Western team again outlasted the Eastern champs.

In a game played on a slippery field and with a stiff wind blowing lengthwise, the Bombers took a 4-0 lead, dropped behind, 4-10, and then came on to win with their only touchdown strike in the first minute of the fourth quarter.

It was mainly a rather dull, defensive battle which saw both clubs have a touchdown called back because of penalties.

Bomber defensive back Dick Thornton intercepted a pass in the first quarter and went 85 yards into the Hamilton end zone but one of his teammates was called for rough play. Hal Patterson caught a pass from Bernie Faloney in the end zone in the second quarter but the play was called back for offside.

COULDN'T RUN

Tiger-Cats couldn't run against the Winnipeg line, picking up only 45 yards along the ground. They got 158 in the air, 63 in a three-play sequence which brought them their only touchdown.

Bombers got 118 yards rushing but half of it came in the last few minutes of the game. Winnipeg runners were thrown for losses eight times by a tough Hamilton line while Hamilton rushing yardage was lost on six different carries.

Both clubs got a few breaks along the way, but were seldom able to capitalize on them. The Ti-Cats seemed to pressure when they were trailing by 10-15 with just over five minutes left, electing to pass with third down and 10 yards to go on the Winnipeg 36-yard line. They missed, and the Bombers promptly got their ground attack going to move deep into Hamilton territory and get their last point.

Playing with the wind, Bombers took a first-quarter lead on a 72-yard punt by Jack Delveaux and a 33-yard field goal by Gerry James.

Ti-Cats settled for a second-quarter field goal by Don Sutherin after Patterson's touchdown had been called back, went ahead late in the quarter when Faloney clicked on three straight passes — 25 and 10 yards to George Scott and a 28-yard toss tipped into Patterson's hands by Kenny Ploen.

Sutherin converted and it was 10-4, Hamilton, at the half.

James got a second field goal at 5:02 of the third quarter, then the Bombers started a 66-yard march which featured a 25-yard pass from Leo Lewis to Ploen, 11-yard runs by Lewis and James and, finally, a seven-yard spurt for the score by Lewis. James converted for a five-point lead, and Ti-Cats never got closer than 36 yards.

Lions Look Good In Rout of Argos

TORONTO — B.C. Lions, a club which impressed Eastern observers in the two interlocking Canadian Football League games played in the East, trounced the still-winless Toronto Argonauts, 37-21, before 22,254 fans here Sunday.

Much the better club, the Lions didn't pull away until the third quarter. They scored late in the second quarter for a 14-7 lead but moved into a 31-7 lead early in the last quarter and eased in from there.

Lions showed an attack which was dangerous on every play and a solid defence which kept Argos in check until the result was beyond doubt.

LOSE SCHREIDER

Some of the pleasure of victory was taken away from the Lions by the post-game announcement from Gary Schreider that he was returning to his law studies at Osgoode Hall and wouldn't be available for the rest of the season.

Schreider, playing in the defensive backfield and doing the place-kicking, scored 12 points Sunday and was a defensive standout. He kicked one field goal, converted three of five touchdowns and rushed up to score the big touchdown late in the second quarter after his placement try had hit a goal post and was bouncing around loose on the three-yard line.

Willie Fleming, on a 10-yard pass and a three-yard pitchout from Joe Kapp, scored two B.C. touchdowns—his first of the season. Fullback Nub Beamer, bowling over Argos at every step in a nine-yard drive, and Tom Larscheid, combining with Kapp on a 38-yard pass-run play, got the other B.C. touchdown. A single by Bob Schloredt completed the Lions' scoring.

Dick Shatto, on a one-yard plunge after an interception had given the Argos a chance early in the game and a 32-yard pass from Tobin Rote, scored twice for Argos. Rookie Joe Hernandez, on a 20-yard pass from Rote, got the other Toronto touchdown and Bill Mitchell converted three times.

Rote came into the game with his club trailing by 24 points and stayed to the finish to throw. He managed to complete 11 of 17 throws in the last 12 minutes for 164 yards and two touchdowns. All it did was make the final statistics flatter the dreary-looking Toronto club.

One of the stars for the Lions was corner-linebacker Norm Fieldgate. He intercepted three of Pete Hall's passes, and the Lions scored each time. They got the single, which put them ahead, 8-7, on the first one and their third and fourth touchdowns after the other two.

Kapp completed 12 of 22 passes, five to rookie Mack Burton, for 179 yards. Beamer's tremendous rushes up the middle got almost half the Lions' 189 rushing yards, and kept the Toronto defence off balance.

Hunters Get Right To Use Watershed

By ALEC MERRIMAN

Hunters will be allowed to hunt deer in the Greater Victoria water board Sooke Lake watershed this year, but the privilege will be limited to one section and to 100 hunters who must first pass rigid medical tests.

TOO MANY DEER

Water board commissioner Ronald Upward said the 10-square-mile Niagara Canyon and Upper Goldstream Lakes, including Butchart and Lubbe Lakes, will be the area — and the main reason for opening it is that deer have been so numerous that they have stunted or stopped growth of 90 per cent of the small trees that have been planted in a reforestation project.

He said 75,000 trees have been planted in the area each year for more than five years, and none of the trees are showing growth because deer have eaten off the tender shoots at the tops.

Access to the area will be on a first-come-first-served application basis to the first 100 hunters and applications will only be considered after a newspaper advertisement appears early in October.

Applicants will be required to take blood and stool tests under regulations of the Public Health Act with reference to watershed areas.

It is only planned to open the area during the last three or four weeks of the hunting season, and it will be an any sex shooting area.

The idea, Mr. Upward said, is to reduce the deer population by killing off the does. As far as the watershed foresters are concerned, the deer have done so much damage that they feel the only good deer is a dead deer, said Mr. Upward.

Vancouver Figures Up

Race Track Was Busy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Despite bad weather at the start and plenty of rain from time to time after that, crowds and betting for the Vancouver thoroughbred season showed a healthy gain over last year.

The 80-day Vancouver meet at Exhibition Park ended Monday with 6,359 racing fans putting $211,828 through the mutuels.

That brought the total attendance to 487,014, an increase of 41,284 over 1961, and the mutuel handle to $13,538,197, up from last year's total of $12,173,446.

Action now shifts to Sandown Park, near Sidney on Vancouver Island, for the final 14 days of the B.C. season. Opening day is on Friday and the meeting, which will see no racing on Tuesdays and Thursdays, will end on Oct. 8.

Mandy's Magic, a four-year-old bay colt, captured the featured Au Revoir Handicap Monday, running the mile and 70 yards over a sloppy track in 1:46.4 minutes under the handling of Jockey Tino Dominguez.

In a co-feature, over the marathon distance of two and a quarter miles, Just Dream, a 6-1 shot, plodded through the mud to finish in front.

CLINK HAD 103.

Bobby Clink, who wound up with a meet record of 103 winners, had only one winner on the last day. The best previous jockey mark was the 91 winners ridden by Kenny Coppernoll in 1955.

Glen Dixon was the runner-up with 72 winners while Jimmy Broomfield and Donny Richardson had 47 each. Randy Mills, with 32 winners, was the top apprentice.

Up-Island Clubs Get Grid Sweep

Up-Island entries made their presence felt in the opening games of the Vancouver Island Juvenile Canadian Football League Sunday.

Campbell River Raiders upset Farmer Construction Bays, the defending champions, by a 14-8 score at Carnarvon Park, and Nanaimo Redmen beat the visiting Victoria Vampires, 19-12.

Next Sunday Vampires play Farmers at Carnarvon Park and Redmen visit Campbell River.

Trailing 8-6 going into the final quarter, Raiders won it on a touchdown pass from Fred Patterson to Gordie Clements. Convert and a single by Ed Detford wrapped up the scoring. Raider's other touchdown came on a long first-quarter run by Denny Begford.

Jim Blades scored a touchdown and John Todd kicked a convert and a single for Bays.

LEAD TOO BIG

Vampires did all their scoring in the fourth quarter, on unconverted touchdowns by Daryl Thom and Neil Worboys after they trailed 19-0. Ron Olmstead got two touchdowns for Redmen, Ed Plensky fell on a Vampire fumble for another, and Doug White kicked one convert.

Next games: Sunday, 2 p.m. Chilliwack vs. Victoria, Macdonald Park; Richmond at Surrey.

A 55-yard touchdown play with three minutes left in the game gave Victoria Hornets a 23-19 victory over Surrey Rams at Macdonald Park Sunday and ran their unbeaten streak to five games in the Fraser Valley Junior Canadian Football League.

With his club trailing 19-17, Hornet quarterback Dave Heywood picked up 10 yards on an option play, then lateralled to halfback Bruce McFarlane, who went the remaining 45 yards for the touchdown.

Rams, who trailed 10-0 after the first half, erupted for three touchdowns, one converted, in the third quarter to account for all their points.

Barry Neff kicked a field goal for Hornets and had two converts. McFarlane scored two touchdowns and Heywood got one.

ANOTHER CHANCE

Sunday at 2 p.m. at Macdonald Park, Hornets play Chilliwack, the club that held them to a 7-7 tie in their first meeting. Hornets have won their other four games.

Moves Into Golf's Throne-Room

Nicklaus Not Just Pretender

AKRON, Ohio—Golf has a new king of the hill today—a muscular 22-year-old named Jack Nicklaus who looks like he'll take a lot of dethroning.

Nicklaus took over as golf's top man Sunday, refusing to buckle under tremendous pressure as he beat Arnold Palmer and Gary Player by four strokes in the first annual "world series" of golf.

The stocky former U.S. amateur champion, in his rookie year as a professional, picked up first prize of $50,000 with a 36-hole total of 135, shooting a 69 Sunday after an opening-round 66.

Palmer, who tied the Firestone Country Club's competitive course record with a 65 in the opening round, skied to a 74 Sunday to tie Player, who put a 70 with his first-round 69.

This one brought together the winner's of golf's four major tournaments—Nicklaus, the U.S. Open champ; Player, the PGA winner, and the fabulous Palmer, British Open and Masters champion.

For the second straight time, the rookie pro bested Palmer in head-to-head competition. The first time they met under such conditions was in a play-off for the U.S. Open crown.

MOST EVER

In his rookie year, Nicklaus has never finished out of the money in any tournament he entered. Although the $50,000 he collected Sunday doesn't count in PGA listings, the youngster from Columbus, Ohio, has won more money (better than $100,000) than any golfer ever has in a single season.

Palmer holds the official record this year with an all-time high of more than $80,000, including the $12,500 he collected for splitting $25,000 with Player.

"Now," Nicklaus said after Sunday's win, "I really know I belong. I've been doing well, but even after I won the U.S. Open I wondered whether I belonged up there with the king (Palmer) and all the rest. I guess I do now."

Nicklaus had to come from behind to win Sunday, but he got the lead early and held on to it with prodigious drives and pressure shots, daring the others to come and get him. No one could, not even Palmer, whose stretch drives in tournaments like this one have made him a legend.

Palmer, who birdied the first three holes Saturday, was in trouble at once. He started with a one-stroke lead over Nicklaus, and fell behind both Nicklaus and Player by bogeying those first three holes.

His putter, often his chief weapon, let him down badly. On the first nine Saturday, he needed only 11 putts. Sunday he needed 19.

"Right there," Palmer said, "was where I got beat."

Perhaps the greatest tribute to Nicklaus came from Player.

NOT SPARING

"You gentlemen saw one of the greatest out there today," he told reporters. "He's not only a long hitter—the longest in the game today—but some of his iron shots were miraculous. He's as good a putter as there is around just now. He'll be a headliner for a long time and could put together the greatest career the game has ever known.

"He has everything."

King Fisherman

Powerful Cowichan Haul Takes Over Coho Lead

A 19:6-pound coho caught Friday at Cowichan Bay by Colonist subscriber Fred Smith of Duncan has taken the lead in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest.

Mr. Smith could win the three-horsepower Viking outboard motor donated by T. Eaton Co. for the subscriber with the biggest coho, the King Fisherman coho trophy, a Centennial Fish-of-the-Month bar, a Prince Crest, a monthly hidden-weight prize and one of the main hidden-weight prizes, which include a CPA trip to Japan.

FASTER SPEED

Mr. Smith caught his fish shortly before noon near Cherry Point on an extra long blue and white bucktail trolled at faster than usual bucktailing speed. He had no spinner or weight.

It was his biggest coho, although he is a regular Cowichan Bay-Cherry Point-Separation Point fisherman and has caught 15 others this year.

TOO MANY NOW

He used to be a spring fisherman at Cowichan Bay, but there are too many other fishermen in the bay for him now and: "I don't go for mooching."

Mr. Smith weighed his fish at Leo Vanderbyl's Cowichan Bay Anchor Marina and Mr. Vanderbyl described it as a "real deep and powerful coho."

He was trolling with 80 feet of line, but the coho took out 800 feet before he was checked.

1967 Fair Backed By Ottawa

MONTREAL (UPI) — The federal government Monday officially announced its support of Montreal's bid for the 1967 world fair to coincide with Canada's centenary and Montreal's 325th anniversary.

Associate defence minister Sevigny, accompanied by Premier Lesage and Mayor Drapeau told reporters the federal government would ask Parliament to vote a $20,000,000 subsidy for the fair provided the provincial government matched put up $5,000,000.

Could Crash Recur?

Three Drivers from One Address

Saanich police still are fingering their slide rules to try to find what the chances are a four-car collision Sunday involving three drivers living at the same address will happen again.

The interesting mathematical problem was posed by one of three accidents that sent four persons to hospital on the weekend.

★ ★ ★

First driver in line in the rear-end crash at Trans-Canada Highway and Grange at 6 p.m. Sunday was Leonardus Vandekamp, 466 Burnside.

He was followed crash, bang, by Bernard Meine and Leonard Vandekamp, also of 466 Burnside.

★ ★ ★

Unwelcome fourth at the nerve-shattering gathering of the clans was Gerald Gieskens, 60 Logan.

Ann Kronenberg, 466 Burnside, a passenger in the Meine car, was the only person taken to hospital after the collision. She was released after treatment.

★ ★ ★

A Saanich couple was in Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday with multiple injuries after an accident at Quadra and Union Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Margaret Gilman, 47, of 3322 Cedar Hill, was in "fairly good" condition after the car she was driving crashed into a power pole.

★ ★ ★

Her husband George, about 50, was in "satisfactory" condition with head injuries.

Police said the car apparently swung wide on taking a curve and sheared off the pole.

City motorcycle constable Wilfred Rule was released after treatment when knocked off his bike at a busy intersection late Saturday.

★ ★ ★

He showed up for work later but was sent home to recover from a bruised hip.

Traffic officers said the accident at Bay and Quadra involved a car driven by Mrs. Gwendolyn Higgs, 3018 Westdowne.

Redcoats Span Century

British redcoats have invaded U.S. for Seattle world's fair. Members of 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, stationed at Work Point, are mounting Canada-Week guard just as British soldiers did in Canada in 1856. One of them, Pte. T. G. Cross of Fiske, Sask., is one of 29 in 19th-century British uniform. Modern soldiers at fair include L.Cpl. D. J. M. Danyleyko of Elliot Lake, Ont., centre, and his uncle, WO2 Andrew Danyleyko of Victoria.

Rain Mounts, Fort Falls

Everything Wrong at Canada Week

SEATTLE (CP)—Rain put a big damper on Canada Week at the Seattle World's Fair Monday.

A military tattoo scheduled to be performed each night had to be cancelled because of "wet grounds." So was a scheduled fly-past by the Golden Hawks, the RCAF's jet aerobatic team. The fly-past will take place Wednesday.

NO ONE INJURED

In another development that plagued officials, a part of a simulated "fort" which had been constructed in the stadium for the military tattoo collapsed.

No injuries were reported.

Attendance at noon was 12,316, indicating one of the poorest days the fair has had. The smallest crowd for a full day was 18,821 May 1.

The weather bureau said nearly a half-inch of rain had fallen by mid-afternoon.

Officials said the tattoo would go on as scheduled at 8 p.m. today if weather permits. The forecast for today was for partial clearing.

The Comedie Canadienne production of Bousille and the Just staged its second performance Monday night.

Critic Louis R. Guzzo of the Seattle Times, reviewing Sunday night's opening, described the work by Gratien Gelinas of Montreal as "a pungent morality play in modern dress."

'EXTRAORDINARY'

La Comedie Canadienne is an extraordinary company in that it can deliver many plays in French or English," Guzzo said.

"Nevertheless the bilingual skill has its drawbacks. Many of the performances in Bousille have the quality—and the shortcomings—of English as spoken by Frenchmen, or French-Canadiens, to be exact."

Fruitlegging Runs to Coast 'Rob' Okanagan Growers

PENTICTON (CP) — Unscrupulous people are using cars with the back seat removed to run bootlegged fruit from the Okanagan to the Fraser Valley and coastal points, the B.C. Fruit Board said Monday.

"They buy the fruit from growers who evidently do not care what happens to the main part of the crop which must be sold through regular channels," board chairman J. G. Campbell of Salmon Arm said in a special appeal to growers.

Urging anyone with information on the bootleggers to telephone the fruit board at Kelowna collect, Mr. Campbell said: "These illegal shipments upset confidence in orderly marketing and cost the grower many hard-earned dollars in sales and in cost of control."

Local Militia Resuming Activities

Victoria militia units begin their 1962-63 program this week at the Bay Street Armory.

Reserve soldiers in Victoria will participate in fewer exercises this year than in previous years and the basic number of training days scheduled has been dropped to 35 from 40, because of economy measures connected with the government austerity program.

But recruits are welcome.

PROGRAM BEGINS

Units beginning their program this week are: Headquarters 25 Militia Group; Fifth Independent Medium Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery; Five Area Signal Squadron; Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's); 135 Company Royal Canadian Army Service Corps; 40 Technical Squadron Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers and 44 Intelligence Training Company Army Photo Interpretation Section.

Exceeding Beauty In Mayhew Show

By INA D. D. UNTHOFF

When Elza Mayhew leaves for Eugene in a few days time to join the teaching staff of the University of Oregon as an assistant to Jan Zach, Victoria will lose one of its most active and inspiring artists.

But we hope that it will be for only 10 months—a university year.

* * *

Mrs. Mayhew, a student of Jan Zach while he was teaching in Victoria, has never allowed her enthusiasm to cool.

It is in sculpture that she has progressed in such a sensational way she now is included in the group of Canadian sculptors whose work has been chosen by the National Gallery of Canada to tour the provinces at the conclusion of the outdoor show of contemporary sculpture being held outside the new National Gallery in Ottawa.

The two pieces, The Onlookers and Procession, were shown in the grounds of the Victoria Art Gallery last summer and caused much interest and comment.

There is nothing to equal them in her present showing of sculpture at The Point, 1080 Fort, for size or compressiveness, but her smaller metal pieces are exceedingly beautiful in texture and design.

The larger ones are not shown to advantage in the limited space in the studios there. They need the play of light and color of an outdoor arrangement to animate them.

For several years Mrs. Mayhew has been concentrating on line drawings from the nude, reducing them to the simplest statement of chalk or brush line.

* * *

Now she has developed a style which poses great distinction as well as being a highly personal statement.

This has not been done in a few months or even years. It has taken eight years of close application to produce anything as significant in expression as Exile in pure black line, or Ruth in its rugged strength of heavy black chalk.

* * *

In lighter vein her studies of bamboos posses charm and spontaneous use of wash.

In the sculpture group Warrior, Triptych, Sacrifice, Ceres, Dignitary and Seated Woman claim one's attention for their beauty of material and powerful stylization.

Norway Seeks Cuban Trade Shipping List

OSLO (Reuters) — Informed sources said Monday night the Norwegian foreign ministry knows some Norwegian ships are engaged in transport from Communist countries to Cuba and has asked the Norwegian Shipowners' Association to help in preparing a list of such ships.

The sources stressed, however, that the foreign ministry does not know of any Norwegian ships transporting "oil, arms or ammunition from this or any other country to the Castro regime."

Pedestrians Sitting-Duck Targets

Police Chief, Auto Club Concerned

Douglas Crosswalk Branded Murder Row by Expert

By JACK FRY

Who will be responsible if a pedestrian is killed by a car on Douglas just north of the Burnside intersection—the pedestrian, the motorist or the city fathers who authorized a crosswalk there in the first place?

City police and automobile club officials seemed to agree yesterday the city would be largely responsible for creation of perhaps the most dangerous crosswalk in Victoria.

The painted crosswalk with no caution light lies just a few feet north of the controlled pedestrian crosswalk at the Burnside intersection—setting its users up as sitting-duck targets for fast cars.

Curiosity of a Colonist reporter was sparked during a recent traffic safety meeting when J. M. Leeming, secretary-manager of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Automobile Association, said in a passing remark: "The southern part of Douglas Street is going to be Murder Row pretty soon."

Mr. Leeming was out of town yesterday, but his assistant, Frank Barclay, said: "We have seen three occasions where people nearly got clobbered—and once it was a policeman who nearly got hit."

Chief Constable John Blackstock said, "I was never in favor of having a crosswalk there. It's in the wrong position. It is in the middle of an intersection. It should be taken out and put at Burnside."

"We're quite concerned about it. In its present condition it is not safe," said Mr. Barclay.

Traffic northbound on Douglas is stopped at the Burnside intersection by pedestrians who push a traffic light control button before attempting to cross.

Motorists coming through a controlled pedestrian crosswalk are not expecting to hit another crosswalk so soon. Also it is difficult to see the painted crosswalk "because you're coming up a rise," said Mr. Barclay.

Only solution as he saw it was either to remove the crosswalk or install a flashing caution light above the street.

Schools Face New Wave Of Children

By IAN STREET

A new wave of children is about to sweep through Greater Victoria school system, just as the high point of the so-called "post-war babies" reaches the top of the school ladder.

Harassed local officials, who must provide accommodation for a school population that is constantly increasing, reported yesterday that every grade in the school system showed a healthy increase this fall.

GRADES 11 AND 12

The biggest increase comes at the Grade 11 and 12 levels, where the crop of post-war babies is about to complete its schooling, and at the other end of the scale in Grades 1 and 2.

A district-wide tally of enrolments, compiled by board officials yesterday, shows an increase over 1961 figures of 96 in Grade 1 and 140 in Grade 2.

UNDER-ESTIMATED

School superintendent John Gough said predictions of increased enrolments were "under-estimated," and indicated revisions in estimated growth of the school population will be made before further building programs are instituted.

Enrolment for regular classes in Grades 1 to 12 throughout the district showed a 4.5 per cent increase—slightly higher than in the past two years but still below the 5.4 per cent boost in 1959.

INCREASE OF 1,065

This year's enrolment in these grades is 23,169, compared with 22,099 in 1961, an increase of 1,065.

To this figure must be added the 400 students in special classes and the 1,200 pre-schoolers who will be attending kindergarten.

ONLY PART-TIME

Board officials point out kindergarten pupils only attend part-time—either morning or afternoon on alternate weeks—but add the program is being expanded from eight centres with a total of 980 pupils in 1961, to the 10 centres that will soon be in operation.

Six kindergartens are already operating and others at Lake Hill, Uplands, Marigold and Shelbourne are expected to begin within two weeks.

DESPITE PROGRAM

Shifts are also in operation at several elementary schools despite a building program which will see 36 new classrooms completed by next month and several others by Christmas.

Secondary schools are overcrowded, and the school board will meet next week to decide if two or three additional teachers should be hired.

Proud Winner

Winner of Hiram A. Carney Memorial Scholarship, Ross Bryant, 18, of 127 Government Street, shows $250 cheque he received from Norman Richards, president of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Government Employees' Association. Scholarship, awarded annually to sons or daughters of association members, is for scholastic and extra-curricular achievements. Ross will study science and mathematics at Victoria University.

Don Ross Becomes Gyro Chief

Don Ross, a Victoria insurance adjustor, was installed as president of the Victoria Gyro Club at the annual dinner meeting last night in the Strathcona Hotel.

Other officers include Dr. Jack Edmison, vice-president; Bill Hudson, secretary and Mel Breakwell, treasurer.

Directors are Robin Hudec, Don Matheson and Keith Olson.

Picnic Postponed

Trying to Date Venus

Jet-age scientist, Dr. Hyron Spinrad, 28, of Pasadena, Calif., has date with Venus on Little Saanich Mountain. The California Institute of Technology astronomist will also study Mars and Jupiter. His finds will aid future space flights.—(Bud Kinsman.)

With New Telescope

Expert to Try Peek at Venus From Saanich

Information to be gleaned this week by a visiting American scientist at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory may affect the design of future space-travelling equipment.

Dr. Hyron Spinrad of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena is here to carry out several projects with the new 48-inch telescope on Little Saanich Mountain.

MEASURE VENUS

Specifically the 28-year-old scientist is here to obtain spectrograms of Venus, Mars and Jupiter. "I will try to measure temperatures and pressures in the Venus atmosphere," he said. "One can do this by making measurements in a carbon dioxide band which shows up in the spectrum.

"There are large pressures and high temperatures. The range indicates that the atmosphere is probably very deep, and it is likely to be very hot near the surface," he added.

LOOKING FOR GASES

The New York-born scientist explained he was looking for gases in the atmosphere of Mars. There are indications there might be nitrous oxide compounds, he said.

As for Jupiter, Dr. Spinrad will endeavor to discover the amount of molecular hydrogen in its atmosphere. He also wants to find the rate of rotation of the methane, ammonia and hydrogen gases in its atmosphere.

HERE FOR WEEK

Dr. Spinrad, who obtained his degrees at the University of California at Berkeley, will be here for about a week. He has a wife and two-year-old son with him.

"What I've seen of Victoria in one day I have liked very much," he said.

He would like to be here Dec. 14, when the Mariner II space vehicle is scheduled to pass Venus, in order to measure temperatures and pressures for comparison with information sent by Mariner II.

"But Venus will probably be obscured on the west coast at that time of year," he concluded rather sadly.

Two-Year Scheme

Saanich May Develop Burnside as Artery

Improvement of Burnside Road as Saanich's major north-south road construction effort on the west side of the municipality in the next two years was studied last night by public works committee.

A call was also made for speedier action in extending McKenzie Avenue into a major east-west route across the Saanich Peninsula.

LION'S SHARE

Committee recommended that council allot the lion's share of its 1962 roads budget to a municipally-initiated local improvement of Burnside from the city boundary to Wascana, and its 1963 budget to improvement from Wascana to Tillicum.

Saanich would also ask city council to initiate local improvement on one side of a four-block stretch where the boundary overlaps from Harriet to Washington.

BURNSIDE SECOND

Engineer Neville Life told committee a peak-hour traffic count showed Burnside was second only to Shelbourne in traffic load. The count showed an increase from 640 cars per hour in 1957 to 990 per hour two weeks ago.

"There are a multitude of roads which need this type of treatment but I'd say this is a first-class recommendation," said Reeve Stanley Murphy. Several heavily-used roads in Saanich are "fantastic cow trails," he said.

Coun. Robert Chard pressed for establishment of McKenzie Avenue as a major east-west route before the provincial highways department "freezes" its plans relating to highways routing into the city.

The engineer reported Saanich has already acquired all the land necessary to extend McKenzie to Burnside near the Trans-Canada Highway, but does not have enough money to build the road.

CUTOFF ADVOCATE

Reeve Murphy—a strong advocate of the McKenzie cutoff which he insists would relieve pressure on the main route into Victoria—said it would take 10 years of the corporation's road-building money to finance such a project.

A preliminary traffic count on Saanich's roads showed there has been a general 80 per cent increase since 1957, said Mr. Life.

NEED FOR MILL

"I think this report points up the need for an extra mill for roads in Saanich. I think council cannot avoid the responsibility," said Coun. Chard.

Reeve Murphy said the municipality will be "in real trouble" in 10 years unless more emphasis is placed now on construction and improvement.

Only boy baton twirler on Vancouver Island, Larry Kenneth Middleton, 10, 3216 Frechete, was a prize winner at competitions in Beacon Hill Park Sunday. He and his sister, Lynne, won first prize in duets and he came third in solo twirling. (See Page 29.)

Report on Infants

Deformities Not Rising

A Victoria obstetrician said Monday there has been no rise in the level of infant deformities coincident with a rise reported in Alberta over the past three years.

Dr. Douglas Marshall was commenting on a report by Dr. L. J. le Vann, medical superintendent of the provincial training school for retarded children at Red Deer, Alta.

Dr. le Vann said studies indicate the increase in foetal malformities is linked with a rise in Canada's level of strontium-90.

NUCLEAR TESTING

Strontium-90, linked with nuclear testing, is believed to cause damage to human bone and tissue. The amount of strontium-90 in the atmosphere has increased greatly since the resumption of nuclear testing.

Dr. Marshall said, however, there are many reasons why this increase in deformities could be occuring in Alberta and the strontium-90 theory has not been proved.

He said no research is being carried on here similar to that being done in Alberta, but routine records kept on all deformed babies do not indicate any rise in deformities here.

Also, because of geographical differences and varying air currents, it is probable the amount of strontium-90 here is much less than it is on the prairies.

Youthful Drivers Warned

Magistrate William Ostler said yesterday he will start to suspend driver's licences of minors convicted of driving without insurance.

The get-tough move came after three minors were convicted in Esquimalt police court of the offence.

They were Joseph Landry, HMCS Jonquiere, Peter G. Jubb, 27 Government, and David W. Thompson, HMCS Nadon. Each was fined $25.

"If this keeps up I'm going to suspend driver's licences," said the magistrate. "There is too much of it."

Chamber Plans Trip To Far East in 1963

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce plans to organize a 19-day trip to Japan and likely Hong Kong in the spring of 1963, open to members of all Vancouver Island chambers.

Estimated cost of the flying trip will be $1,083 a person and includes air and ground transportation, hotel accommodation and guides.

PLANS RELEASED

Plans for the trade mission were released at yesterday's annual meeting of the Victoria chamber.

J. A. Wallace, new president of the chamber, said at the meeting the business mission might prove to be the first of trips every two years organized to take Vancouver Island businessmen to various parts of the world.

WIDEN CONNECTIONS

The tour is intended to provide the opportunity for Island businessmen to set up or widen business connections. Plans include visits to such industries as electronics, automotive, pests, native arts and crafts, textiles, shipbuilding and heavy industry.

Chamber members interested in the trip have been asked to phone the Victoria chamber.

Jim Crow Dead Here But Alive on Mainland

STAFF NOTEBOOK

DISCRIMINATION? A soft-talking man from Georgia, who came to town with his wife just a day or so ago, had some nice things to say about Victoria — and some indictments to fire at our big neighbor on the mainland.

The gent, you see, was a Negro, and what he liked about Victoria had little to do with the climate, or the view, or the air of Olde Englande.

"Up here," he said, "you can forget what color you are. For my wife and me, that's enough to make our holiday."

On the mainland, he said, things are different. Jim Crow still walks the streets of Vancouver—but in a guise that makes him hard to spot.

Hard, that is, if you're the right color.

"Over there," said the soft-talking Georgian, "the hotels are just booked up, that's all. Nobody tells you to beat it down to Harlem — they just look at the door and make nervous noises."

HIGHWAY PATROL: Will the highways department put hole-spied take careful note of what follows? Spies report that middle-of-the-road caverns on one of the Malahat lookout spots are so deep tourists are taking pictures of them instead of the view. Alternative to repairing these chasms in the asphalt might be to landscape them and put a little pond in the middle.

SUMMER'S END: If the deluge of fall fairs, service club meetings and so forth hasn't convinced you the summer season is on its way out, just poke your nose out the door for a moment.

Take a deep whiff.

Smell the flowers, overripe on their stems, the bite of pungent leaf-smoke boiling out of back yards here and there?

Feel the crisp edge of the wind?

That's fall coming.

IF YOU CAN'T SAY SOMETHING NICE . . .: Fellow with a poison pen has dashed off a letter that has about as much hate in it as Hitler's Mein Kampf. His daughter, he claims, was lured into prostitution by a pair of B.C. social workers, the RCMP and other assorted officials.

Shrewd comes from a man now living in San Jose, Calif., who claims 15,000 copies of the thing are in the mail.

The accused officials are branded with names ranging all the way from unprintable obscenities to a mild "stinky."

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie H. Blow, 8907 East Saanich Road, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Merlyn Blow, to Mr. Murray E. Christian, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Christian, 1780 Mills Cross Road. The wedding will take place Saturday, Oct. 13, at 8 p.m., in St. Aidan's United Church, the Rev. A. G. MacLeod officiating. Miss Blow is a 1962 graduate of the Royal Jubilee Hospital School of Nursing. —(Chevrons.)

Bumper Crop Register

For the first time since 1900, St. Joseph's School of Nursing report they have two male student nurses registering for classes.

They are Mr. Roy Harding of Vernon, and Mr. Jack Nazaroff of Brilliant, B.C.

The two men are among a record-breaking class registering today and yesterday at the hospital.

A bumper class of 75 will go into training this year.

New director of the School of Nursing is Sister Mary Doris, formerly director of nursing service.

The hospital reports that male nurses are on the up-grade. It's a new national trend. In the past male nurses have been discouraged because of accommodation problems.

Mr. Harding and Mr. Nazaroff will live out.

Rich Autumn Tones Decorate at Wedding

Large baskets of gold, white and bronze chrysanthemums and gladiolus decorated Wilkinson Road United Church for the marriage of Patricia Joyce Mewhort and Mr. David Allen Boon. Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. William T. Mewhort, Wilkinson Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Boon, Wilkinson Road. Rev. L. Selber officiated.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to organ music played by Mr. L. King.

YELLOW ROSES

She chose a floor-length gown of white nylon sheer featuring a basque bodice with lace insert accented with irridescent sequins and portrait collar. A hooped skirt billowed from the fitted bodice and her poufy illusion veil misted from a coronet of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and lily-of-the-valley.

PEAU DE SOIE

The bride's sister, Isabel Mewhort, was maid of honor and the groom's sisters, Edith and Judith Boon, were bridesmaids in peau de soie gowns fashioned with fitted bodices and full bell-shaped ballerina length skirts. A bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums and tiny rust rushes complimented Miss Mewhort's champagne-shade dress. Bronz chrysanthemums contrasted with the bridesmaid's cognac-toned gowns.

Mr. George Roberts sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

James Boon was best man for his cousin and ushering were James Mewhort, the bride's brother, and Warren Boon, the groom's brother.

AUTUMN TONES

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Holyrood House where the same autumn tones were used in decoration. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake made by her mother and nestled in a mist of white tulle and yellow rosebuds.

Leaving on a honeymoon to be spent touring Washington, Oregon and California the new Mrs. Boon changed to a three-piece wool suit in mink brown shades, with matching flower cloche hat and brown accessories. Her corsage was green and brown orchids. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Boon will reside in Brentwood.

Craigflower Women's Institute will go for a conducted tour of the provincial archives followed by tea at the Union Club on Thursday, Sept. 13. Regular business meeting is postponed until Sept. 30 at 1:30 p.m.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: In the nine years we've been married my wife has gained 35 pounds. She is only 5'2" and she weighed 125 pounds when we married so you can imagine what she looks like now.

She has gone to three doctors in two years to find out why she has gained so much weight. She'd like a doctor to tell her she has a glandular problem, but no doctor has been able to find anything wrong with her glands, so naturally, they are all crazy.

Every evening at the dinner table she points out that she eats less than our seven-year old. Actually, this is true.

Frankly, I'm a little at a loss to figure out why she is so much overweight. Can you explain it? —ANXIOUS HUSBAND.

Dear Husband: If the doctors can find nothing organically wrong with her it means she is eating more food than her body needs.

I'm not a detective so I can't tell you how she manages to smuggle the food into her mouth, but her weight is evidence that she is managing, somehow.

Many women nibble between meals. Others taste when they cook. The "tasting" is never considered "eating," of course—and the nibbling is forgotten. When they clear away the dishes some women eat the leftovers instead of putting them in the refrigerator or throwing them out. The body counts these calories, even if the eater does not.

If your wife honestly wants to lose weight she'll have to put herself in the hands of a doctor and stop making excuses.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann: I'm 28 years old and feel the years slipping away. Worst of all I find myself hating my mother which makes me alternately guilty and furious.

Dad died when I was 16. I didn't go away to college because Mother couldn't be left alone. So I went to work.

I meet interesting people but I can't bring anyone home because mother bores them to death. The house is a mess because mother doesn't like to clean. She refuses to have help because a maid "gets in the way."

She opens my mail, listens to my phone conversations, and faked a heart attack last year to keep me from taking a vacation.

I'm dying to move out and mother could manage financially without me, but whenever I bring it up she says she's not well enough to live alone.

Please, please tell me what to do. —KNOTS IN MY STOMACH.

Dear Knots: You know what to do, you just want someone to tell you to go ahead and do it. So I'll tell you. Move out now, while you can still make a life for yourself.

You owe your mother respect. She gave you life, but it's your life and you don't have to give it back to her.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann: I'm bewildered, hurt, and embarrassed. Please tell me if I deserve what happened yesterday.

A friend (not close, but we work together) lost her mother. The office took up a collection for flowers. I was absent that day.

The next morning I went out and bought a lovely sympathy card. I sent it to my friend and wrote on the bottom, "I'm so sorry."

Yesterday the card was returned to me in the mail with this note: "I'm telling you as a friend. This is in bad taste. A hand-written note would have been proper."

Is she right? I am—MORTIFIED.

Dear Mort: A hand-written sympathy note is considered a cut above the store-bought kind, but a dignified card is not in bad taste.

If anyone is guilty of bad taste (and bad temper) it is your friend. Perhaps grief blurred her judgment.

Famous Cat Press-Minded

* * *

By EILEEN LEAROYD

Gay Curran is a vibrant young woman from Toronto who "had to get out of town" and away from her flourishing interior decorating business, to do the thing she loves best.

With burning Titian hair and ideas to match it, Miss Curran might have taken a tip from Shakespeare when he said "All the world's a stage . . ." because she seems to have decided to take a crack at all the parts in the play.

The strange thing is that while following other careers, she really wanted to do just one thing—teach.

Miss Curran is now happily teaching (Montessori Method) a bursting class of 40 preschool children at Elk Lake Co-operative Play Group. But it was a long way around, and on the way she picked up a broad education herself.

NEW YORK

Daughter of the curator of the Natural History Museum in New York, Dr. Howard Curran, Gay knows a thing or two about entomology.

There is more written about the erudite Dr. Curran in "Who's Who in America" than anyone else, and his daughter was exposed to the mysteries of this vast museum from an early age.

Dr. Curran is a Canadian by birth, so Gay was reared in New York, Toronto, Orillia and Ottawa. She went to school and College in Cleveland and took a degree in handicrafts at New York University.

CWAC

When the war broke out, she travelled to Ottawa and joined the Canadian Women's Army Corps, working in cipher branches in Ottawa and Washington.

With the end of the war, she enrolled at the Ontario College of Art studying interior design with the noted Freda James. She was accepted into the Society of Interior Design of Ontario, one of only two at that time, headed by Mary Bennett, decorating editor of Canadian Homes.

In 1948 she was working for the Freda James Studio in Toronto. Here Gay made a name for herself in color blending.

In 1951 Gay went to England where she worked for the Festival of Britain, British furniture design section.

She later worked at "Primavera" a store owned by Henry Rothchild, London's first contemporary furniture and accessory shop.

YOUNG POET

At the same time Gay met an exciting young poet—John B. Donne. They were married and lived in a house on Hasker Street. John Donne was a protege of Robert Graves and Cecil Day Lewis — Stephen Spender gave their wedding lunch.

"It was a wonderful life," says Gay, "but how do you treat a genius?"

Their marriage lasted six years. They had many things in common beside writing, poetry and good conversation—mainly, cats.

One of their cats was called "Keats" and according to Gay he was probably the most publicized cat in all Europe. She has a fat book of press clippings which bears this out.

Keats was one of about 150 cats auditioned for a part at Covent Garden Opera House. Keats got the role and was made much of in the press. Later Keats was fired for a wrongly placed leap across the stage, and this was also played up. Many photographers furthered their careers by photographing the handsome Keats.

UP CHIMNEY

Later Keats caused more publicity by being stuck up a neighbor's chimney and was pictured with various members of the London Fire Dept. who gallantly came to the rescue.

Apart from feeding the ego of her press-minded cat, and entertaining poets, Gay Curran Donne filled her time in with handicrafts. She sold some 50 articles on design, knitting patterns for dolls, and decorations of all kinds, to English magazines.

To round out her already full days, Miss Curran intrigued by the Montessori system of teaching enrolled at Montessori International, at London where she earned her diploma.

Returning to Canada she went back into interior decorating, working with George Jensen, Bloor Street, Toronto, finally branching out on her own "Gay Curran Interiors."

"I got so tired of it," said Gay. "The hours were just about 24. Sleep was a rare thing. I was decorating houses, apartments, offices and doing exhibitions. After my last job, doing 10 model houses at Bay Ridges, I was really exhausted.

One day I was staring out my office window at the snow and I simply knew this was the moment to decide whether I would stop and begin teaching, the thing I really loved. But I knew if I stayed in Toronto I would never get away from decorating.

"So I packed my things, collected my two cats, "Oliver" and "Alexander and moved here. It is a decision I with I had made long ago."

Gay and Oliver and Alexander live in a little red cottage not far from Elk Lake and beside the school. She teaches her beloved Montessori system—which in a nutshell is "highly diversified training where children are helped to think for themselves and develop their special skills."

Miss Curran also studies painting with Alan Edwards and creates handicrafts under the name "A Gay Design" for Stuart Studios on Government Street. Already she is involved with many groups although she's been here just a few months.

"Just one thing I won't do," says Miss Curran with a touch of Irish, "interior decorating."

Oliver and Alexander meow in agreement.

Tania Verstak, 21, who won the "Miss International Beauty" title in Long Beach, Calif., pauses for a rest in Hawaii on her way home to Australia. She turned down a world tour and fringe benefits worth about $25,000. Tania has measurements of 36-23-36.

Honor Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Thompson entertained at their Nottingham Road home recently, with a party to honor their daughter, Miss Dana Thompson, on her 21st birthday. Games and dancing were enjoyed. Those present were: Mrs. H. M. Diggon, Mr. and Mrs. James Painter, Mrs. R. Strikers, the Misses Marjorie Howell, Mab Belford, Heather MacDonald, Julie-Anne Gibson, Diane Kersey and Mr. James Moore, Mr. James Whittaker, Mr. Robert Hallam, Mr. Peter Archibald and Mr. Richard Tripp. Before the party a family dinner was held at the Princess Mary Restaurant. Covers were laid for five.

WHEN YOU BANK...

Back in the old days, bankers were pretty fearsome people. They had Dignity, a Cold Eye, a Thin Mouth, Mutton Chop Whiskers, and a Ruthless Tendency to Foreclose Mortgages (or so we read!). The banker today is as human as you are, and just as businesslike. Drop into your branch of The Bank and see. You'll find that The Bank really has the people who make the happy difference in banking!

Novice's Daff Guide

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Purchasing daffodil and narcissus bulbs can be a difficult business for the novice gardener — not because they are hard to come by, for drug stores, supermarkets and even the corner stores are getting into the bulb-selling business — but because there is such a bewildering array of varieties to choose from. It occurred to me it might serve a useful purpose if I listed a few of the less expensive kinds which have done well in my garden.

First, I guess we had better clean up this daffodil-narcissus business. A daffodil is a narcissus, but a narcissus isn't necessarily a daffodil. All of them—jonquils too—are narcissi, and the word daffodil is really a nickname for the large-trumpet kinds, both yellow and white.

★ ★ ★

With all the new varieties appearing on the market, I still have a strong affection for King Alfred, probably the best known of all daffodils. It is a sturdy grower—an important point when you consider the violent gales and storms we experience in the spring—and its golden yellow flowers are held high on long, straight stems. King Alfred is a real old-timer—it was bred and introduced in 1899.

A particularly lovely pure white daffodil is Beersheba, not as big nor as strong as King Alfred, but an excellent performer just the same. For best effect, this one should be massed in biggish clumps—two dozen or more bulbs together—for while a drift of Beersheba has a pure and ethereal look about it, very small groupngs are a bit wishy-washy in appearance.

★ ★ ★

Coming now to those varieties with smaller trumpets, one of the most popular and outstanding is Fortune. This is a gem of a flower, in clear yellow with a beautifully frilled cup of glowing orange.

Croesus, another variety of the same general type, has creamy white petals and a cup of clear orange gold.

Carlton is a fine variety of an even, soft primrose yellow shade, and has a good strong flower which will stand up under pelting rain and not get knocked about. I have never had a moment's worry or concern over Carlton in our garden.

Among the small-cupped types, Firetail has been a consistent performer with me, well worth the room it occupies in the garden. The flower is a creamy white with a frilly cup of orange red.

★ ★ ★

For my money, just about the most reliable poet's narcissus for garden decoration is Cheerfulness, with several double white flowers on each stem, each with a faint tinge of green, making a cool and lovely appearance, especially in large groupings.

In the Triandrus group, my choice is one called Silver Chimes—not too well known hereabouts, but a real beauty. Silver Chimes could easily be mistaken for a Paperwhite narcissus, with six or seven flowers per stem, but the individual flowers are bigger, and with thicker, stronger petals.

I have never been able to work up too much enthusiasm for the double daffodils, for the best of them seem somewhat blowsy and overblown to my eye compared to the chaste lines of the singles. This is a personal thing, though, and if you like doubles, a good weatherproof variety is Twink, in creamy yellow and orange.

It's Au Revoir to Paris

Buchwald U.S.-Bound

It is not our intention to write a sad farewell column to Paris, particularly since we hope to come back in two years and pick up where we left off, which was watching several lovely girls walking down the Avenue des Champs Elysees, pas Fouquet's restaurant.

It's hard to wrench ourself away from Paris after 14 years. We don't know how many French governments we lived through, but from a foreigner's stadpoint nothing much ever changed under any of them. Even prices haven't changed since 1948. If anything they've gone down.

All our friends in Paris seem very happy that we're going. To them they're not losing a friend, but gaining an apartment.

There is no doubt we're going to miss certain things.

We're going to miss breakfasting with General de Gaulle, taking long walks with Brigitte Bardot, painting Pablo Picasso's portrait, and sitting at a sidewalk cafe with Greta Garbo.

★ ★ ★

We're going to miss going dancing with Gene Kelly in Montmartre, and singing with Edith Piaf under one of the bridges of the Seine. We're going to miss water skiing with Princess Grace and poker games with the Rothschild family, soirees at Versailles with the Duchess of Windsor, and laughs with General Raoul Salan at Sante prison.

We're going to miss candlelight dinners with Elizabeth Taylor, and golf with General Norstad, scrabble games with Andre Malraux, and parachutte jumps with U.S. Ambassador Gavin.

★ ★ ★

We're going to miss doing business with Aristotle Onassis, and taking moonlight rides with Elsa Maxwell.

Not that we've dong any of these things. But we're going to miss them anyway.

Many people have warned us that we're making a big mistake going to Washington, D.C. at this time. They point out that it's perfectly all right to make fun of the French but it's another matter making fun of Americans.

We'll, we have no intention of being frivolous. No country of 180,000,000 people and a yearly defict of 7,000,000,000 can afford to laugh.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

Last year I wrote enthusiastically about The White Nile, by Alan Moorehead. Now Mr. Moorehead has written a companion volume The Blue Nile (Harper) and it's just as good or even better than the first one. I'm convinced the two books will become classics, to be read and reread for decades to come.

What is it about these books that makes them so tremendously exciting? I think the secret is that Mr. Moorehead has come up with a new kind of book — a book unlike any written before.

The Nile books are second-degree travel books. By this I mean that Mr. Moorehead spent months going up and down the Nile visiting the places he writes about. But he did much more. He also spent months — probably years — reading his way through stacks of rare, dusty 19th-century volumes describing the travels and experiences of early explorers and observers. In this way he made his books "travel books plus:" they describe for us the excitement and wonder of original discovery against the background of knowing what these places are like today.

Nowadays most of the world has been charted, explored, fully described. Even if you hack your way through the jungle to the sources of the Amazon, you're hardly apt to come back with something unbelievably new. But you can—if you have Mr. Moorehead's literary gifts—recreate for for present-day readers the shivers of getting there first, enhanced by the comfortable knowledge that if you care to, you can go there yourself today by plane, bus or taxicab.

Ruins Vanish Soon

For instance, here's what Moorehead tells us about John Lewis Burckhardt's trip to the Upper Nile in 1813.

"During this earlier part of his journey Burckhardt was in the vicinity which now, in the 1960s, are soon to be either removed or flpoded by the waters of the new dam (at Aswan). No one who has seen the temples can fail to regret their disappearance from their present setting, for it is an exhilarating experience to come up in the evening, or better still in the moonlight, to some such place as Wady es Sebur, and see, close to the shore, the great propylon of Rameses' temple with its avenue of sphinxes half buried in the sand.

"But to have been there in 1813, as Burckhardt was, and to have known that nothing but an utter barbarity lay around, that there was no easy way back to civilization, and that this sight, unrecorded, unexplored and unknown, was standing there for your eyes alone: this must have provided sensations which were the justification for all the dangers and miseries of the journey."

Greatest Goal of All

Or here's Moorehead on the first visit to Meroe by the French explorer Cailliaud: "Now at Berber he was within sight of the greatest goal of all, the ruins of Meroe, which in acient times had been the capital of the Sudan and of most of Egypt as well. With the exception of Bruce and Burckhardt, who had made only passing reference to the place, no one had described the ruins for a thousand years at least, and there was even some doubt at this time as to whether or not they really existed. Cailliaud had read everything he could about Meroe, dreamed of it, schemed to get there, and finally in a transport of excitement he reached it.

"Using Bruce's map, he and his companion Lextorec arrived at Meroe on April 25, 1821, just in time to see the first rays of the sun gilding the tops of scores of stepped pyramids. Most of them were in a state of crumbling ruin, and in size they were nothing to be compared to those at Gizeh or even at Sakkara. But if was the same effect of grandeur, the same attempt to create 'a gigantic staircase to the heavens,' and Cailliaud, beside himself with a discoverer's joy, climbed the highest he could see and there carved the name of the French geographer d' Anville who had mapped the Nile—a tribute that can still be seen on the pyramid today."

Answer to Sunday's Crypt-A-Crossword

Rex Harrison Logical Choice

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Rex Harrison plans a fast trip to Hollywood and Jack Warner. Object—a last-stand fight to get the movie role of Professor Higgins in "My Fair Lady."

★ ★ ★

Let's look at his competition: David Niven, who doesn't really have enough sourness for the part. Richard Burton is too young. And Cary Grant, whose voice has a tinge of Cockney and 'twouldn't do for the professor to have a Cockney accent when he is trying to cure Eliza Doolittle of same.

★ ★ ★

So Rexy, who created the part brilliantly on Broadway, really is the logical choice, Mr. Warner. . . . And did I mention before that Rex, as Caesar, is reported to steal "Cleopatra" right from under the naughty noses of Liz Taylor and Burton?

★ ★ ★

Gene Kelly, wife Jeanne and the new baby are in to New York to attend "The Gene Kelly film festival" put on by the Museum of Modern Art.

★ ★ ★

Tarzan prefers milk! Jock Mahoney downed two quarts of Grade A homogenized while lunching in New York where he has been publicizing his "Tarzan Goes to India" movie.

★ ★ ★

Ava Gardner is making more movies this year than for the past three! After her "55 Days at Peking" in Madrid, Ava will be going to Rome for "The Pink Panther" with David Niven. Audrey Hepburn was originally set for this cute-sounding picture, but she is still busy in "Paris When it Sizzles," and afterward will take a long rest.

★ ★ ★

Maria Schell is looking forward to working with the one and only Richard Burton in the "Unarmed in Paradise" movie. Richard has the right to choose the director.

★ ★ ★

Robert Preston prefers to live and work in New York, but he'll be in Hollywood for quite a while after he completes his current "Not on Your Life" to star in "All the Way Home" with Jean Simmons. Of course Robert owes all his popularity to his amazing performance in "The Music Man"—both stage and screen versions.

★ ★ ★

Doris Day, prettiest businesswoman in America, is dickering to buy a radio station in North Adams, Mass. A bit of sentiment is attached—North Adams is where her husband, Marty Melcher, was born.

Masses of Students Expected at Varsity

More than 1,900 students are expected to register for courses at Victoria University during the next four days.

The doors of the gymnasium on Gordon Head campus will be opened at 9 a.m. today to the first of a flood of students that will continue until Friday evening. Doors close daily at 4:30 p.m.

Up to late Friday, a university spokesman said yesterday, a total of 1,295 students had been accepted by the faculty of arts and science; another 574 for courses in the college of education.

More applications for acceptance, received yesterday, were still being processed last night.

All students who have been accepted must turn up at the Gordon Head gym to register this week. They will receive their timetable of lectures for the coming year and at the same time pay their term fees.

Late registration penalty of $25 comes into effect Monday, with an additional $5 levied for each day thereafter, up to $50 maximum.

Runaway Reclines In Sun

TORONTO (UPI)—Jocko, the runaway sea lion, making the most of Toronto's late summer weather, was seen Sunday reclining in the sun on rocks by the lakeshore.

Jocko escaped from Prudhomme Garden Centre at Vineland several months ago. Since then he has led pursuers on a merry chase in Lake Ontario.

Party in U.S.

Bolshoi Ballet Twists

NEW YORK (CP) — The famed Bolshoi Ballet did the twist en masse here Sunday at a private penthouse party to the appropriate tune of Moscow Nights.

The dancers, headed by their prima ballerina, Maya Plisetskaya, arrived by bus to be greeted by a five-piece jazz ensemble.

Also on hand were Gene Kelly of dancing fame and actors Henry Fonda and Robert Preston.

When band leader Ted Straeter struck up Moscow Nights the dancers did the twist. They also watched a demonstration of the dance by the Bolshoi's only American member, Anastasia Stevens. She finished her stint to critical acclaim and said, "Give them time, they'll master it."

'Way to Save Scenery Is to Leave It Alone'

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — Nature and people are traditionally incompatible, Canada's chief of national parks service said Monday.

Barhold Strong told the Pacific Northwest Trade Association conference the demands of the public never can be met without damaging some aspects of the natural scene, and careful planning is necessary to keep the damage down.

"One of our main purposes in national parks is to preserve this scenery for all time, and the only way to preserve scenery is to leave it alone."

Such things as commercial accommodation were responsible for the loss of much of the atmosphere and natural appeal of Canada's famed beauty spots.

Accommodation and other services in national parks should be located at less scenic sites within easy travelling distance of beauty spots to preserve the scenery in its natural state, he said.

The parks service was doing this by establishing "visitor service centres" to supply serviced campgrounds, motels, bungalows and stores at places in national parks far enough from main centres not to provide economic competition for them.

The first visitor service centre is to be built at Lake Louise in Banff National Park.

Mr. Strong said camping space is falling far short of demand throughout Canada, but campground development was going on in every national park in the country.

Constructive self-criticism gripped Monday's sessions of the association as speakers railed at the lack of adequate campgrounds, accommodation and promotion of its member states and provinces from Montana to Alaska.

John Carver Jr., assistant U.S. secretary of the interior, deplored wasteful practices which damage or destroy wilderness and parks areas in both countries.

He said lumbermen, miners and cows all deserve living space, but it does not have to be in a park.

Preservationist traditions were barriers to commercial uses of parkland and this dictated against creation of new national parks. But there was enough land to have both parks and wilderness and yet have sustained-yield management of resources.

Judges Scan Labor Law Controversy

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Court of Appeal Monday reserved decision on the controversial question of legal entity for Manitoba labor unions and employer organizations which had been referred to it by the Manitoba government for interpretation.

The question of responsibility for the acts of individual members of trade unions and employer organizations was referred to the five-man court for interpretation by the provincial government July 9 after the bulk of last spring's government-labor law amendment was proclaimed.

At the last session of the legislature the government amended the Labor Relations Act to include sections which could make legal entities of employers' and employees' groups and civilly liable for any unauthorized acts of their members.

The section dealing with the legal entity question will not be proclaimed and go into effect until the court has given the interpretation.

Cuban Exiles Tell Tales

MIAMI (AP) — A motley fleet of small craft reached Florida during the weekend with a record load of Cuban refugees—some telling of ring-nosed Africans being landed by Soviet ships in their homeland.

Miguel Antich, brother of the skipper of one craft, and Alberto Salvador, a Camaguey cattleman, said Congolese were being brought to Cuba by the Russians.

Fourty-four men, women and children debarked from three boats at Miami, and one boat brought 41 refugees to Key West.

This car will go 100 miles for a dollar.

On the highway, at highway speeds, the Volkswagen 1200 delivers around forty miles to a gallon of gas. (The average for city and country is 38 mpg.)

If you live where gas is forty cents a gallon, your full expense isn't hard to figure out. A penny a mile.

But then there's the oil.

(A Volkswagen never needs oil between changes.)

And the cooling system.

(A Volkswagen is cooled with air instead of water. There's nothing to rust, leak, or replace. And no anti-freeze to buy.)

Operating a car means money for upkeep.

(A VW needs less maintenance and fewer repairs than any car in its class. Our factory employs 5,000 full-time inspectors who see to it that every Volkswagen is built to last.)

And money for things like dented fenders?

(The Volkswagen is a sensible car. You don't have to replace half the body for the sake of a new fender. A few bolts, a few minutes, and the job is done.)

Visit your VW dealer soon and see the Volkswagen. And don't be afraid to give it a good test run.

It only costs us a penny a mile.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

If you don't like remembering how old you are, stay away from the Oct. 2 Jack Benny Show.

Benny's guest will be Frank Sinatra, but not the one you think. This one is Frank Sinatra Jr., aged 18, and if you can remember when his daddy was a skinny kid with padded shoulders and a bat-wing bow tie, you're getting on, Charlie.

Sinatra the younger will sing, play piano and act in a comedy sketch with Benny. If he's one-quarter as good as the old man used to be, he'll be a welcome addition to the current crop of crooners.

* * *

CBS, says UPI reporter Rick Du Brow, killed its educational series, Accent, to replace it with Mr. Ed, a show about a talking horse. Apparently Mr. Minow and the boys haven't cleaned up that vast wasteland yet, after all.

"I understand you're having trouble tuning in the educational channel."

HIGH ABOVE CADBORO BAY IN ONE OF OUR FINEST NEW RESIDENTIAL AREAS.
2564 CHELSEA PLACE

Here is a two-year-old executive home which must be inspected to be fully appreciated. Priced to sell quickly as the owner has purchased a larger property, this home is of real quality finish and stands on an attractively landscaped corner lot. 1,300 square feet of luxury living includes enough of those little extras that make the house a "little different." There is a Swedish-style raised corner fireplace in the living room, and the mahogany panelled dining room is flanked on the southeast side by sliding glass doors which provide access to a 100-sq-ft patio-type sun balcony. Even I would not mind having to serve a little time washing dishes in the most attractive kitchen. The master bedroom has its private 3-pce bathroom. Two other bedrooms and 4-pce bathroom. All bedrooms have cedar-lined closets. The basement contains utility room and unfinished rumpus room.
Yes, this is well worth inspecting, particularly at the asking price of $21,000. And if you are short of ready cash why not try an offer with $4,500 down? Mr. Eric Charman EV 5-9765. Fairfield Realty, 335 Cook Street.

Winning Contract

The difference between a good guesser and a good player is that sometimes, no matter how well you guess, you can't make your contract. But if you play correctly, it doesn't matter how you guess.

The hand that inspired this sermon was played by the Irish International star Jack Kelly. Even if he had guessed wrong, he would have made his contract, where lots of declarers who guessed right did not.

The bidding

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	All pass

Opening lead ♦ K

Measured by American bidding standards, South's jump rebid is much too optimistic. Partner's two-club response is pretty sure to warrant another bid if South merely rebids his spade suit without jumping. But in the Acol system played in Europe, very light hands are opened and a minimum rebid might be passed.

As most declarers played the hand this would have been all to the good. Dummy's ace won the diamond lead. The ace of clubs was cashed, the queen led, and East's king ruffed. Declarer then led a diamond. To kill the threat of the diamond ruff, the defenders had to lead two rounds of trumps immediately and this permitted dummy to regain the lead with the spade ten. But when South tried to take a discard on the jack of clubs, West ruffed and South remained with one more inevitable loser.

Kelly made the hand by the simple expedient of ducking the first diamond lead! Now, if the defenders continue diamonds, South comes to his hand with a heart and ruffs his remaining diamond before touching trumps, eventually losing a diamond, a heart and a spade trick. Or if, instead of the diamond continuation, defenders shift to trumps, for example, South has time to establish dummy's clubs and to draw the adverse trumps with the diamond ace remaining as an entry to dummy.

Winning trick: If you aren't sure what to do when you win the trick, perhaps the answer is to duck it.

Shopping Trip Uncovers Missing Car

City police constable Ernest Bennett decided to go shopping for a car yesterday.

He phoned National Motors, 819 Yates, and described in detail exactly what kind of a car he had in mind.

"Yes, I think we can help you," said the salesman. "We have one just like it on our lot. I'll call you back in a few minutes."

Moments later he telephoned back, puzzled: "We had it here, but I can't seem to find it right now."

"I know you can't. It's sitting at Trans-Canada Highway and Thetis Road."

Const. Bennett had noticed the car parked by the side of the road for four days.

Investigating he discovered the previous owner had sold it to National Motors about two weeks ago.

Sometime since then it was stolen, with no one any the wiser — until Const. Bennett went shopping.

Magna Chief In Victoria For Hearing

President of Magna Pipelines Ltd., Ralph Farris will arrive in Victoria today to answer the Public Utilities Commission's invitation to appear at a public hearing to show why it should not lose its franchise to pipe natural gas to Vancouver Island.

The PUC last week issed the invitation after the company said it could not meet a Sept. 4 deadline to show a contract for pipe to build the $13,000,000 line.

A British pipe manufacturer had returned its contract to Magna. The PUC voided the company's certificate of public convenience last week.

Oxonian Goes West

Life by Thumb The Hard Way

Being searched for a gun before being offered a ride is a rough way to travel, but Richard Redden is used to it now.

Richard, 19, an Oxford University student from Bromley, Kent, England, has been travelling North America by thumb since the beginning of July, when a planeload of British students fanned out over North America from New York after an air hop from England.

The students were beginning a working and sight-seeing trip around North America which is scheduled to last into October.

NO LUXURY TRIP

Richard's first destination was Toronto and a job, since this was to be no luxury trip. The idea was to work and travel about evenly over the three-month period.

Richard worked in Toronto for seven weeks.

His job—to clean out operating rooms after the operations.

CAN'T HELP IT

"I never like the sight of blood much," he said, "but after a job like that, you can't help getting used to it."

Richard liked Toronto but was surprised at all the wires strung thickly over the city streets.

"They were there every place you went," he said. "It seemed as though the sidewalks had ceilings."

Richard spent two weeks hitch-hiking through Canada and the U.S. on his way to Victoria. It was on this trip he was searched for a gun.

"I always thought I was an innocent-looking student type," he said, "but the man was very nervous and wanted to make sure I wasn't armed before he'd give me a lift."

REAL SURPRISE

"A very friendly man and his wife gave me a lift in Saskatchewan," said Richard. "He was a real surprise. Just before I left them his wife told me he was the provincial minister of health."

Richard has spent the past two weeks in Victoria and leaves Tuesday on a hitch-hiking tour into the southern U.S. and Mexico. He plans to arrive back in New York in lots of time to see the city before leaving for England, Oct. 1.

Shabby Suspect Boasts Big Bankroll

NEW YORK (AP)—The shabbily dressed defendant's court-appointed lawyer pleaded for low bail on the ground his client was an out-of-work seasonal garment worker.

The client, Michael Tortoso, 48, of Brooklyn, was charged with petty larceny and possession of burglar tools after he allegedly looted a telephone coin box. The judge assented to the plea and set cash bond of $250.

Tortoso then dug into his pants pocket, hauled out a bankroll several inches thick and peeled of 25 $10 bills.

Asked about it, Tortoso said the roll contained $527. The judge held the case over to Wednesday.

"That's good," offered Tortoso. "Tuesday I've got to go to the unemployment office to get my cheque."

Island Goodwill Party Returns From Alberta

The "Spend-Your-Winter-Vacation-on-Vancouver-Island" goodwill tour has returned from five days in Alberta.

Organized by B.C. Toll Authority ferry system, the tour was made up of 39 representatives of civic and business groups from all over Vancouver Island.

The group visited Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat. It was the first goodwill tour from B.C. to Alberta.

Travelling by bus, the party was partied royally by civic and government officials.

Roses were flown from Victoria for a party in Calgary, and Sam Gough of Parksville took oyster shells along to leave as souvenirs.

A 40-pound salmon was flown in from Campbell River for one of the dinners.

The group is sponsoring a seven-day all-expense tour of Vancouver Island for two people in each of the four cities they visited.

Knifing Solved Today?

Police expect to learn today who stabbed Norman Bradley, 749 McClure, Saturday.

Hospital officials have refused to let police talk to the 25-year-old victim until today "at the earliest."

He was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with a knife wound in the stomach after making his own way early Saturday to the emergency ward.

An emergency operation was performed although no vital organs were damaged.

His mother, Mrs. Ann Bradley, told the Colonist Saturday she knew the identity of her son's assailant. The victim's wife Judy was with him on the night of the incident.

Space Eye Going Up 80,000 Feet

NORWALK, Conn. (AP)—Scientists will float a giant telescope 80,000 feet above the earth early next year and, by means of television, view the universe as it has never been seen before.

Twin balloons will hoist the telescope into the heavens next February or March, when Mars is comparatively close.

At a distance of 1,000 miles, the 18-foot long telescope will be able to view an object about six inches wide. At the same distance, it will be able to distinguish two spots of light only 30 inches apart.

First trip of the entire apparatus, weighing more than six tons and dubbed Stratoscope II, is being financed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for $336,000.

Welshman's Condition

Churches Must Unite To Earn $750,000

SHREWSBURGY, England (Reuters)—Leaders of four Welsh churches met here Monday to discuss whether they can unite and share a gift of £250,000 ($750,000).

Sir David James, a Welsh-born millionaire, offered the money to the four non-Anglican denominations in Wales — Baptist, Congregational, Presbyterian and Methodist — on condition they achieve unity within a year. He later extended the time limit to 10 years.

The leaders Monday decided to consult their own ministers and churchmen and meet again in about a month.

Sir David, 74, a grain merchant and movie magnate, lives in Sussex, England.

Leftist Painter Ends Red Trip

QUEBEC (CP) — Rockwell Kent, United States painter and writer, said Monday pressure from high American finance is preventing the government effort to end the cold war.

Kent, who recently celebrated his 80th birthday in Leningrad, was interviewed aboard the Polish liner Batory on arrival from a five-months trip to Russia and Eastern Europe as guest of Soviet Russia's ministry of culture.

COLD WAR ECONOMY

Kent said the American economy depends on the cold war. The end of the cold war would have disastrous consequences for both management and labor engaged in some prospering American industries.

He said the billions of dollars now spent on arms should, instead, be used to help bolster the economies of other countries.

COMMUNIST?

Kent was a centre of controversy a few years ago when he refused to tell a U.S. Senate sub-committee on un-American activities whether or not he was a Communist.

His refusal to answer was followed by the withdrawal of his books from the Library of Congress. He said be had to fight in the courts for five years to obtain a U.S. passport.

Such incidents are a disgrace for the United States, he said, adding he is convinced that a man's political opinions are his own, and that a passport is simple proof of citizenship, not a permit to leave the country.

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — An exploratory party landed on volcano-ravaged Tristan da Cunha Saturday to determine whether the lonely South Atlantic island is again habitable.

Foresters Unhappy Come Rain or Shine

B.C. forest service officials the past few days sounded a lot like Okanagan fruit growers—nothing was right.

Fruit growers are hard put to find a single sound apple when the market is strong but up to their ears in a bumper crop when consumers are looking the other way.

RELIEF DRIPPING

Forest officials Friday were complaining of a high fire hazard in Vancouver Island woods and could see no relief in sight.

Yesterday, with relief dripping from the sky in drops the size of Okanagan apples, they were fretting about the backlog of slash which operators can't burn.

A wet fall and a wet spring would mean the slash would carry over into the 1963 fire season and present an added hazard. Slash fires start easily, travel fast and are hard to extinguish.

Although the official fire season continues until the end of October, suppression officials are already breathing easily and starting to think of next year.

Only latent hazard existing in B.C. yesterday after general rains for the previous 12 hours was in the Okanagan.

Forest officials said they expect rains to continue for the remainder of his week.

Ugly Duckling Best Tool In Firefighting

The fixed-wing fire bomber may be the most romantic tool of the B.C. forest service but its ugly-duckling cousin, the helicopter, is probably more valuable.

Chief B.C. forest protection officer Floyd Nelson said yesterday experience gained during 1962, the first year in which a major helicopter fleet was on constant standby in the province, seems to have justified the government's decision last spring to treble its whirlybird strength.

NEVER REPLACED

He said he considers the helicopter a slightly more valuable fire-fighting tool than fixed-wing air tankers but added one will never replace the other.

The air tanker "buys you time," he said, but the helicopter carries in the men who extinguish the blaze.

"Fighting fires is like war, you still have to have men on the ground like the infantry," he added.

This year the forest service had 12 helicopters on full-time standby — two in each forest district and two extra in the north, compared with only four during the disastrous 1961 fire season.

Full cost of the expanded fleet will not be known for some time but forest service estimates for aircraft charter rose from $232,000 in 1961 to $632,000 this year. The figure includes provision for helicopters, fire bombers and light "bird dog" planes for observation and bomber control.

Mr. Nelson said air tankers are particularly valuable for controlling spot fires after lightning storms.

"Helicopters will never replace them—they are like the pump and the shovel," said the protection officer. "The pump will always be with us and we buy thousands of shovels every year."

Each of the helicopters employed on standby by the department is capable of carrying two firefighters and the pilot.

Just Wanted A Shot At Kennedy

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)— Australian advertising executive Garth Doorley explained carefully to the owner of the home across from St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church why he wanted to rent a room with a view of the church's front door just for one day.

"We'd just like to get a shot at the president," Doorley explained.

Less than an hour later, Doorley was in a coffee shop with a friend when several neatly-dressed men suggested he accompany them to police headquarters.

It took only a short time to explain to the Secret Service all he wanted was to photograph President and Mrs. Kennedy as they left church.

9. The cabin of a DC-8 Jet is 12 feet wide. This is wide enough to take 6 seats abreast comfortably. KLM's first-class cabins have only 4 seats abreast.

11. On KLM's intercontinental first-class flights, you get slippers, hot towels, sleeping masks, champagne, and other wines on the house.

Family plan saves you money

14. KLM has a family plan that saves you money. From October 1st to March 31st, your wife—and children from 12-25—can fly across the North Atlantic with you for much less than the usual fare.

15. The fare on a KLM flight from Amsterdam to London is now about half what it was 40 years ago.

16. KLM carries an average of 3,830 passengers every day—about twice the capacity of a big ocean liner.

Your KLM Captain

17. Your KLM captain sees the weather 150 miles ahead. "Flight watch" on the ground can see still farther ahead, and advise the captain on weather and traffic conditions. If necessary, the flight operations officer can plan alternative routes and pass them on to the captain.

18. KLM pilots help choose the instruments they will use on board a DC-8 Jet. One of these instruments is called the Sperry Integrated Flight System. With IFS, three dials do the work of seven. Captains get flight information faster.

19. KLM pilots help choose the type of aircraft they themselves will fly. No new aircraft is ever purchased by KLM until it has been approved by Senior KLM pilots.

20. Having themselves been professionals in the field of air transportation for 43 years, KLM recognizes that it takes professionals to plan trips efficiently. In every city in Canada, KLM is represented by a professional—your Travel Agent.

Pacific Tests Go On

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Monday night the United States will resume its nuclear test series in the atmosphere over the Pacific sometime after Sept. 22.

The announcement came in an AEC defence department statement saying the restricted area around the Johnston Island test site would be re-established effective Sept. 22.

There was no word from the commission on exactly when tests would be resumed.

But the AEC said "the tests will include a few high-altitude events and a few in which the devices will be dropped from an airplane."

Mounties Watch Marchers

GRAND FORKS, B.C. (CP)—RCMP were out in strength and ready for anything while a chilling rain kept Sons of Freedom Doukhobors huddled in their tents on a farmer's field here Monday. (See Page 7)

An officer said seven squad cars and 15 members of the RCMP Doukhobor squad are keeping a round-the-clock watch on the refugee-like band of 400 Freedomites.

MORE UNCERTAINTY

Two moves made Monday by leaders of the Freedomite cavalcade added to the uncertainty.

Two carloads of Freedomites headed for Agassiz in the Fraser Valley, apparently to arrange for accommodation for the main body near a Freedomite prison there.

They are due back Wednesday when the Sons say they will continue their 400-mile westward trek from the British Columbia Kootenays.

TO SCHOOL BOARD

RCMP said a delegation of Freedomites also asked police to make arrangements for their children to go to school in the Grand Forks area.

Police referred them to the school board.

Police found no evidence of arson in the ruins of a wooden highway bridge which went up in flames 13 miles east of here.

Doukhobors Not Welcome

AGASSIZ (CP) — A Sons of Freedom Doukhobor delegation was told Monday there is no accommodation, land or housing for them in this peaceful Fraser Valley village 80 miles east of Vancouver.

Seven men and five women came here as a delegation from approximately 770 Freedomites now stalled at Grand Forks, 250 miles east of Vancouver, on a march to Agassiz.

They asked if they could lease land for a camp site for their large group.

U.S. Trade Plan, Canada's Exports Answer to Market

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Government sources here regard President Kennedy's trade program and Canada's drive for exports as the only real answer to British entry into the European Common Market.

Although Prime Minister Diefenbaker, on arrival in London for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, talked of an "alternative" to British entry, sources here said Monday pinned on Canada's own efforts to expand her trade and the effect of the American program if it passes Congress.

TRADE MISSIONS

The Canadian program includes the dispatch of trade missions abroad at the rate of one every two weeks and conferences such as last week's industrial expansion meeting here to awaken Canadian businessmen forcefully to the need to compete in the world market on the basis of design, quality and price.

Trade Minister Hees regards this program as vital not only if Britain does enter the European Common Market but even if she decides not to do so. Competition for markets in either case is going to be increasingly severe.

OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK

Trade department officials are optimistic that President Kennedy's program will be acceptable to Congress in large part.

Under the president's program, the United States would negotiate with Common Market countries gradual elimination of United States and Common Market tariffs over a wide variety of goods which are mainly produced in these areas.

This program would also permit the gradual reduction of U.S. duties up to 50 per cent on other goods.

Jet Tanker Takes 44 To Death

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A Strategic Air Command KC-135 jet tanker with 44 persons aboard crashed 20 miles northeast of here on Mount Kit Carson Monday. A U.S. Air Force spokesman said apparently there were no survivors.

Rescue and crash teams converged on the area where the wreckage was spread over a wide area.

The plane was reported missing on a flight from Ellsworth Air Force Base, S.D., to Fairchild Air Force Base near here. The air force said there were 40 military personnel and four crew members aboard, all members of the 28 Bomb Wing, Ellsworth.

Firstreports of the wreckage came from two volunteer searchers, Mrs. Clyde Rainwater said the pair, Bert Smith and Robert Hammer, spotted the wreckage about nine miles from her ranch.

Ken McKay, $50 hole-in-one winner of Victoria Gyro Club contest, draws ticket owned by R. N. Carey of Courtenay, making him winner of trip for two to Nassau or Honolulu. Ticket drawing was witnessed by Mel Breakwell, club treasurer, at club's annual meeting last night.

Automation Invades Medicine

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—Doctors at the Mayo Clinic are using an electronic computer in a major trial of automation in medicine.

Some feel the idea will become widespread in a few years, with each patient given a routine analysis when he goes to his doctor.

ROUTINE ANALYSIS

Patients in seven of the clinic's 20 sections are given a long, brown envelope as they wait to see their doctors.

In it is the Minnesota Personality Inventory, a test developed at the university of Minnesota in 1941 and now in wide use.

PATIENTS TOLD

Patients are told:

"This is an inventory of your client's personality. But the enjoy will summarize the kind of person you are. This will help us solve your problem."

EASILY DONE

The questions — calling for true or false answers — are marked with a special pencil which triggers a computer when the test is fed through. Stored on the computer's magnetic tapes are many possible responses to the questions, and a system of analyzing the patient's particular pattern of responses.

SAMPLE QUESTIONS

Some of the questions:

"I enjoy reading newspaper articles on crime."

"I wake up most days feeling fresh and well rested."

"I work under tension."

"I loved my father."

ENTIRE PICTURE

No single answer will give the doctor a clue to the patient's personality. But the entire picture may show a person with a normal response, a person not given to emotional illnesses.

'We Need It Now'

Amalgamation Chamber Goal

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Number one project of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in 1962-63 will be to promote amalgamation of the four municipalities of Greater Victoria, says the chamber's new president.

Following his swearing-in at the chamber's annual meeting yesterday, John Wallace said Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich "live off" Victoria, "but provide little toward its welfare."

PROPER CLIMATE

Only through amalgamation, said Mr. Wallace, can Greater Victoria get a proper economic climate for development of the area's business activity and the welfare of its people.

STREAMLINE WORK

The chamber would have to streamline and subordinate its work for other worthy aims—including the promotion of tourism—in order to be free to concentrate on amalgamation, Mr. Wallace said.

LAUNCHING STRIP

The chamber at present has a committee considering the best way of launching a study of amalgamation.

Mr. Wallace said in an interview following the meeting he thinks Greater Victoria will be lucky if it gets amalgamation within five years. "But we need it now."

NOT INTERESTED

Mr. Wallace said the chamber is "definitely not" interested in a metropolitan form of government for Greater Victoria—one with a single body overseeing various separate councils. "That would just be government on government."

The chamber wants a single council, he said.

PUBLIC OPINION

Mr. Wallace said the chamber would concentrate on trying to create a climate of public opinion favorable to amalgamation. It would assemble facts and figures — but mere facts and figures could be twisted and used by opponents of amalgamation.

FEAR REMOVED

Addressing chamber members, Mr. Wallace said fear of amalgamation in some quarters must be removed, and the spirit of competition among municipalities to the detriment of the whole area—must be ended.

"We must start at this stage to act like a community and continue development under a long-range plan, Mr. Wallace said.

SUCCEEDS WALTERS

Mr. Wallace, general manager of Yarrows, succeeds A. E. Walters. The vice-president, who is traditionally intended to be next president, is lawyer E. E. Pearlman.

Why Not Cage Tourists For Their Protection?

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—Why not cage tourists at timber-cutting sites in a big truck or tractor for their own protection? In Florida, at one attraction, visitors are caged and monkeys run wild, a New York travel consultant told the Pacific Northwest Trade Association Monday.

"When I see logging trucks on the highways, I want to get into the forests and see the lumberjacks at work," Peter J. Celliers said. "I am told there is a danger for visitors, but there are ways around every obstacle if you don't just sit and stare at it."

Ottawa Eyes Cuba, Deeply Concerned

By JACK BEST

OTTAWA (CP)—Officials here are watching the Cuban situation with mounting anxiety.

Though Canada publicly has remained silent on the recent Communist arms buildup in the Caribbean island, diplomatic sources privately admit to being deeply concerned.

Reports reaching the Canadian government have tended to confirm U.S. estimates that the latest big flow of Soviet weapons to Cuba has been essentially defensive.

They also support the belief that Soviet military personnel in Cuba are technicians, not combat troops.

EXPLOSIVE ISSUE

Nevertheless, the Communist power buildup is seen as an explosive ingredient in hemispheric affairs.

So far, it has not caused any visible deterioration in Canadian-Cuban relations. Canada is one of the few countries in the Western Hemisphere which still have diplomatic ties with the Fidel Castro revolutionary government.

Canada also maintains trade relations with Cuba, though of late trade has fallen off drastically.

CANADA CRITICIZED

Canada has often been criticized in the U.S. for continuing to do business with Cuba — through it forbids the export of arms and strategic materials.

Mac Backing Down On Market Pledge?

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan, bidding for Commonwealth understanding if not support, put the case Monday for British entry to the European Common Market.

His speech, on the opening day of a momentous Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, contained no new facts or trade assurances for Canada and some other member countries which have been close to Britain's Common Market negotiations at Brussels.

OTHER COUNTRIES

A conference communique said Macmillan put the case for joining the European Economic Community's six-nation trade group — "subject to satisfactory safeguards for other Commonwealth countries."

From the Canadian government's viewpoint, this appears to be a less precise pledge than others made in the past which promised protection to "essential" or "vital" trade interests of Commonwealth members on the British market.

WILL GIVE VIEWS

For the next two days the Commonwealth leaders — starting with Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker — will tell Britain just how satisfactory they consider the safeguards worked out so far at Brussels.

Canadian officials were busy revising the text of Diefenbaker's speech today—now in its eighth draft—in the light of the case presented by Macmillan.

BASED ON SQUEEZE

It's expected Diefenbaker will base his argument on the squeeze facing Canada's $900,000,000-a-year export market in Britain from the trade terms as they shape up so far in Britain's uphill negotiations with the six EEC members at Brussels.

It seems likely he will also express the hope that these terms can be improved when Britain's chief Common Market negotiator, Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath, returns to the Brussels conference table in a month.

ALTERNATIVE PLAN

The Canadian prime minister is not expected to deal today with a possible alternative plan for Commonwealth trade expansion should Britain decide to stay out of the Common Market.

Flag-Dipper Loses Bail Sent to Cell

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul A. Lapointe 29, head of a group seeking a national flag for Canada, Monday was ordered to cells pending his trial on charges of pulling down a number of Union Jacks during the Queen Mother's visit last June.

Lapointe chose trial by jury at the opening of criminal assizes and Judge Maurice Cousineau ordered Lapointe to cells, although he had been free on bail until Monday.

It has been the practice in Montreal assizes court in recent years to hold persons choosing trial by jury.

"I'm going to the cells to defend liberty," shouted Lapointe as police led him away.

Sleep Toll Piling Up

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Pinellas County health authorities reported four new cases of encephalitis (sleeping sickness) Monday, putting the county's toll at 177 since the outbreak started in July. Thirteen persons have died of the disease.

Evicted Town On the March

CITRUSDAL, South Africa (AP) — Six hundred persons ranging in age to 90 left their homes Monday, taking only what they could carry, and set off to march in a straggling column.

The 600 comprise the non-white community of Elandskloof, a former Dutch Reformed Church mission settlement.

Claiming they had been evicted, one said:

"We will go on walking until we find somewhere to live. We will walk to Cape Town (more than 100 miles away) if we have to."

The owner of Elandskloof, farmer P. J. Smit refused to talk to reporters. But his wife denied the community had been evicted.

"It was their own choice," she said.

The church said the farm was years ago. The community, which had been there for generations, believed its tenancy was protected by a title deed. But in 1960, the clause was annulled by the governor-general.

U.S. Deeply Involved in Formosa Spy Plane Mission

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States probably is as deeply involved as Formosa in the dispatch of a U-2 spy plane over Communist China at a time when there is increasing curiosity in Washington whether the Chinese are earnestly endeavoring to produce an atomic arsenal.

While Chiang Kai-shek's government has quickly accepted full responsibility for the latest U-2 which the Reds said they knocked down by some "unconventional" means, the high-flying plane capable of cruising at heights of more than 70,000 feet is an American product requiring U.S. government approval before it can be exported.

* * *

Formosan and U.S. administrations say Formosa purchased two of the U-2 planes from the U.S. manufacturer in July, 1960, just two months after Francis Gary Powers' plane was discovered and knocked down over Russia, causing an international furore that shattered a summit conference.

* * *

At that time the U.S. pledged not to send any more planes over Russia, a pledge that was repeated when President Kennedy took office in January, 1961.

But what could be more convenient than to "sell" the aircraft to some friendly power, over which the U.S. could exercise a great deal of control and have this friendly power continue doing what the U.S. says it no longer is doing?

* * *

The U-2 plane, with its powerful cameras, proved a valuable and accurate spying instrument. It gave the U.S. a great deal of information about missile launchings and troop movements in Russia. Undoubtedly similar information about Communist China has been transmitted to the U.S. through Formosa.

* * *

Recently there has been some confusion in Washington as to whether China is actually building an atomic bomb and how soon it may be able to test and explode it. There have been a variety of official guesses, including a startling one by a high authority that was hurriedly scrubbed.

* * *

The speed with which associates of this authority attempted to wash away the "guess" that the Chinese may be able to explode such a bomb "in a few months" has opened the question of whether this authority was speaking from a private hunch or from highly secret reconnaissance information.

In any case, the Communists are likely to make the most of the new U-2 mission when the United Nations reassembles next week. On Sept. 6, after a U-2 appeared over Hokkaido Island north of Japan, Soviet Premier Khrushchev warned that if such penetrations are repeated, Russia would be compelled "to take appropriate retaliatory measures."

Hunted Since June

Doctor Caught

NEW YORK (AP)—The FBI announced the capture in Europe Monday of a New York physician sought since the abortion death last June of a teen-aged girl.

Dr. Harvey Lothringer, 41, was seized in the tiny sovereign state of Andorra that lies on the border between France and Spain. The FBI has been seeking him since his disappearance three months ago.

DISMEMBERED

The physician vanished a few days before the dismembered remains of 19-year-old Barbara Lofrumento were found in the sewer of Lothringer's combined home and office in the borough of Queens.

Harvey G. Foster, head of the FBI here, said Dr. Lothringer was arrested in the company of his office receptionist, Theresa Carillo, 24, a former airline hostess whom authorities described as his girl friend.

New Constitution In Force Today

LUSAKA (Reuters)—Northern Rhodesia's new constitution will come into force today, a government spokesman announced Monday.

The spokesman said the legislature has been dissolved by proclamation and a general election must take place within three months.

Earlier it had been announced an election would be held before the end of October in this British protectorate.

Northern Rhodesia's four major political parties all will contest the election.

Kenneth Kaunda's United Nations Independence Party (UNIP) has decided to contest all 45 seats and the United Federal Party of the federal prime minister, Sir Roy Welensky, is expected to do the same.

Threat No Longer

Lumumba's Heir May Be Freed

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Antoine Gizenga, the former Lumumbist leader who has been held prisoner for eight months, may be freed, sources close to the central government said Monday.

Premier Cyrille Adoula and his cabinet were reported considering the step, confident the 37-year-old leftist no longer represents a real threat to the Leopoldville regime he tried to overthrow.

FOLLOWING LOST

They felt that Gizenga has lost most of his personal following during the months in a lonely island jail in the Congo River.

Gizenga regarded himself as the political heir of Patrice Lumumba and tried to take over when The Congo's first premier was slain.

As long as the sullen Gizenga remains a prisoner, Adoula is deprived of support from some African and Communist states which once championed Gizenga.

Sources here expect the government to make a decision on Gizenga's fate within the next fortnight.

LIKE KALONJI

Gizenga may simply be allowed to escape, as was political prisoner Albert Kalonji, the Bulaba tribal emporer of the diamond-making state of South Kasai.

With the co-operation of some government officials Kalonji made his way from jail back to his capital of Bakwanga last week. He immediately promised his full support to a new federal Congo.

Gizenga was confined last February, after leading an unsuccessful insurrection from Stanleyville.

Six-Orbit Trip Delay Ordered

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The planned six-orbit space journey of astronaut Walter M. Schirra has been delayed three days until Sept. 28 to allow more time for flight preparation.

Project Mercury officials made the decision Monday after evaluating reports on the Atlas booster, the capsule, tracking, recovery and other systems.

NOT READY?

There was an unofficial report that the main Pacific Ocean tracking ship, the Rose Knot, was not quite ready. The ship recently was modified for the tracking mission.

Officials reported the Atlas and capsule in good condition. They were joined together Monday on launch pad No. 14 and extensive compatibility tests began which will continue until launch time.

Board Plans Sharp Look At Playboy

EDMONTON (CP) — Playboy magazine will be given "close scrutiny" here Sept. 28 at a meeting of the provincial advisory board on objectionable publications.

Mrs. Louise Lalonde, former chairman of the advisory board, says its planned scrutiny of Playboy was prompted by a story that appeared in the July issue. The story concerned the seduction of a girl by a man travelling with her on a bus to a prayer meeting in the Southern U.S.

"It is the teen-agers who read the magazines that appear on the stands that we are concerned about," she said.

The Freedomites are a troubled people in a psychiatric sense! They are unable to accept the norm of Canadian life where destructive tendencies are frowned upon and Agassiz a dead end.

Possibly the real responsibility for these people lies with the health authorities? Certainly the solution to the troubles experienced sits beneath the surface, deep in the labyrinth of the mind.

Destroying a home is serious enough but in mass form, doubly so. There's something weird, too, in the explosive nature indulged in over the years. And where duty to your fellow man is at fault and the proper spirit falls far short of what is expected.

The mind that can conceal and condone terrorism behind its urbane facade is sick and in need of treatment. Perhaps the psychiatrist can succeed where the law has failed? Enlightenment absorbs the darkness.

CPR Obligations

Referring to the CPR and its "moral obligations," in The Daily Colonist, Aug. 29, it appears that Victoria Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow has a point there: that the B. C. government be urged to investigate fully the CPR "moral obligation" to provide ferry service to Vancouver Island.

More so, the Victoria alderman has backing from Dan Campbell (SC-Comox). The fact the city of Vancouver is asked to pay almost $3,000,000 for a golf course is indicative of the fact the CPR has a good thing going in real estate. Yet the company cuts its mainland-Vancouver Island ferry service to one ship because the service is losing money. Dan Campbell added taxpayers are subsidizing the company's transport operations while the value of its real estate holdings is excluded from its overall profit picture.

Maybe the CPR has acquired the impression that it is the "chosen people," as a street corner preacher described the Wise Men.

In Safe Hands

I'm sure that many people living in Victoria are unaware of the help and willing assistance given not only in disasters but also when our young children are involved by the police force, doctors and hospital staffs.

Embarking from a taxi completing my journey from Germany where I had served a tour of duty with Canada's NATO Brigade, I was informed that my young daughter Kelly Lee had been run over and taken to the Jubilee Hospital. On arrival at the hospital I was informed by my wife that the police had brought her and that if transportation home was not available to call them and they would try and get her home.

Later I learned that the police had been very prompt and certainly were a great help to soothe the wife's feelings at the time. To some this means little but to a soldier who is away from home it shows that our families, at least in Victoria, are in safe hands . . .

Sherlock Holmes

"Take it out of your pocket." This is what the store detective said to me as he held me up in a food emporium on a downtown street the other morning.

"Take what out of my pocket?" I asked.

"That white package of cheese you just took," he said.

"What sort of a holdup is this?" I asked. "Go ahead, search me."

This embryo Sherlock Holmes then said he would meet me at the door but when I reached the door there was no detective either to search me or apologize, so I went to my room to think it over.

It can happen in Victoria, so if any tourist 85 years old who has spent much of the last six months in hospital with a heart condition gets the same treatment as I in a Victoria store, he will have my fullest sympathy.

On the Bandwagon

A recent item attributed to Claude Jodoin as a Labor Day message intimates the need for a revision of Canada's system of social security and I inwardly marvel at his suggestions and I quote: "There is need in Canada today for a full-scale revision of the whole system of social security so that we can more clearly define our present position and plan for the future; the present $85-a-month pension for elderly people over 70 years should be increased to $75 and paid at 65 years; and there should be built-in protection for pensioners against price increases;" end of quote.

As I size up our financial problems which lead to austerity measures, too many people already are riding the bandwagon and not sufficient are exerting any efforts to haul the load.

I would like to thank the young lady who so kindly held my head off the pavement when I fainted for a little while until an ambulance came to take me to hospital. Splendor Is Keynote

Commonwealth Conference In Palace Full of History

LONDON (CP) — Brushing aside the cliches, it can be said that the Commonwealth's date with destiny is taking place in a building simply reeking with history.

The setting for the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers is, in fact, a royal palace. It is called Marlborough House, after the first duke of that name, and ornate splendor is the keynote.

Conference sessions are being held in what used to be the red drawing room. The first thing that strikes the eye is the long, low, oval table of red African wood, so highly polished that delegates feel they are in a hall of mirrors.

There is a chenille-weave carpet weighing three-quarters of a ton and stretching 55 feet. There are glittering blue damask drapes, crystal chandeliers and pink brocade walls with gilt enrichments.

The sense of Louis XIV magnificence is emphasized elsewhere by a black marble staircase and massive wall paintings recalling victories by Marlborough, ancestor of Sir Winston Churchill and one of England's greatest soldiers.

Mural decorations, including scenes of the battle of Malplaquet, are by Louis XIV's godson, Louis Laguerre. There are elaborate ceiling paintings by Orazio Gentileschi, Italian painter who died in 1647.

Pedestrians Sitting-Duck Targets

Police Chief, Auto Club Concerned

Douglas Crosswalk Branded Murder Row by Expert

By JACK FEY

Who will be responsible if a pedestrian is killed by a car on Douglas just north of the Burnside intersection—the pedestrian, the motorist or the city fathers who authorized a crosswalk there in the first place?

City police and automobile club officials seemed to agree yesterday the city would be largely responsible for creation of perhaps the most dangerous crosswalk in Victoria.

The painted crosswalk with no caution light lies just a few feet north of the controlled pedestrian crosswalk at the Burnside intersection—setting its users up as sitting-duck targets for fast cars.

Curiosity of a Colonist reporter was sparked during a recent traffic safety meeting when J. M. Leeming, secretary-manager of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Automobile Association, said in a passing remark: "The southern part of Douglas Street is going to be Murder Row pretty soon."

Mr. Leeming was out of town yesterday, but his assistant, Frank Barclay, said, "We have seen three occasions where people nearly got clobbered — and once it was a policeman who nearly got hit."

Chief Constable John Blackstock said, "I was never in favor of having a crosswalk there. It's in the wrong position. It is in the middle of an intersection. It should be taken out and put at Burnside."

"We're quite concerned about it. In its present condition it is not safe," said Mr. Barclay.

Traffic northbound on Douglas is stopped at the Burnside intersection by pedestrians who push a traffic light control button before attempting to cross.

Motorists coming through a controlled pedestrian crosswalk are not expecting to hit another crosswalk so soon. Also it is difficult to see the painted crosswalk "because you're coming up a rise," said Mr. Barclay.

Only solution as he saw it was either to remove the crosswalk or install a flashing caution light above the street.

Schools Face New Wave Of Children

By IAN STREET

A new wave of children is about to sweep through Greater Victoria school system, just as the high point of the so-called "post-war babies" reaches the top of the school ladder.

Harassed local officials, who must provide accommodation for a school population that is constantly increasing, reported yesterday that every grade in the school system showed a healthy increase this fall.

GRADES 11 AND 12

The biggest increase comes at the Grade 11 and 12 levels, where the crop of post-war babies is about to complete its schooling, and at the other end of the scale in Grades 1 and 2.

A district-wide tally of enrolments, compiled by board officials yesterday, shows an increase over 1961 figures of 98 in Grade 1 and 140 in Grade 2.

UNDER-ESTIMATED

School superintendent John Gough said predictions of increased enrolments were "under-estimated," and indicated revisions in estimated growth of the school population will be made before further building programs are instituted.

Enrolment for regular classes in Grades 1 to 12 throughout the district showed a 4.5 per cent increase—slightly higher than in the past two years but still below the 5.4 per cent boost in 1959.

INCREASE OF 1,085

This year's enrolment in these grades is 23,169, compared with 22,080 in 1961, an increase of 1,085.

To this figure must be added the 400 students in special classes and the 1,200 pre-schoolers who will be attending kindergarten.

ONLY PART-TIME

Board officials point out kindergarten pupils only attend part-time—either morning or afternoon on alternate weeks—but add the program is being expanded from eight centres with a total of 960 pupils in 1961, to the 10 centres that will soon be in operation.

Six kindergartens are already operating and others at Lake Hill, Uplands, Marigold and Shelbourne are expected to begin within two weeks.

DESPITE PROGRAM

Shifts are also in operation at several elementary schools despite a building program which will see 36 new classrooms completed by next month and several others by Christmas.

Secondary schools are overcrowded, and the school board will meet next week to decide if two or three additional teachers should be hired.

Proud Winner

Expert to Try Peek at Venus

Information to be gleaned this week by a visiting American scientist at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory may affect the design of future space-travelling equipment.

Dr. Hyron Spinrad of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena is here to carry out several projects with the new 48-inch telescope on Little Saanich Mountain.

MEASURE VENUS

Specifically the 28-year-old scientist is here to obtain spectrograms of Venus, Mars and Jupiter. "I will try to measure temperatures and pressures in the Venus atmosphere," he said. "One can do this by making measurements in a darbon dioxide band which shows up in the spectrum."

"There are large pressures and high temperatures. The range indicates that the atmosphere is probably very deep, and it is likely to be very hot near the surface," he added.

LOOKING FOR GASES

The New York-born scientist explained he was looking for gases in the atmosphere of Mars. There are indications there might be nitrous oxide compounds, he said.

As for Jupiter, Dr. Spinrad will endeavor to discover the amount of molecular hydrogen in its atmosphere. He also wants to find the rate of rotation of the methane, ammonia and hydrogen gases in its atmosphere.

HERE FOR WEEK

Dr. Spinrad, who obtained his degrees at the University of California at Berkeley, will be here for about a week. He has a wife and two-year-old son with him.

"What I've seen of Victoria in one day I have liked very much," he said.

PROBABLY OBSCURED

He would like to be here Dec. 14, when the Mariner II space vehicle is scheduled to pass Venus, in order to measure temperatures and pressures for comparison with information sent by Mariner II.

"But Venus will probably be obscured on the west coast at that time of year," he concluded rather sadly.

'Biggest Plan Ever'

Nanaimo Sinks Teeth Into Bypassing Route

NANAIMO — The city's Gordon Street Development Committee yesterday began chewing on what Mayor Pete Maffeo has termed "the largest development project in the history of Nanaimo."

Main business of the meeting was to discuss the method of proceedings and appoint a sub-committee to approach the property owners whose holdings would have to be taken over. Until such contacts were completed, no estimates of cost could be made.

HASTE SLOWLY

After an outline by city engineer Arthur Leynard of the whole scheme, it was decided it would be necessary "to make haste slowly," and not attempt to do the job all at once.

The project envisages a completely new route through, or around, the city, making use of Commercial Inlet, which would be filled and allowing extension of Gordon Street through to Front Street.

GROUP MEMBERS

The development committee consists of Mayor Maffeo, Ald. Bus MacDonald, Jack Parker and John Cook, Elmer Bradshaw, Haig Burns, J. Marasco, W. J. Lupton, and George Muir. City engineer Arthur Leynard and city clerk J. Nicholson assist the committee.

Sons on Hunger Strike At Brannan Lake School

NANAIMO (CP) — Six Doukhobors have gone on a hunger strike at the Brannan Lake School for Juvenile Male Offenders.

School officials said the strike began Sept. 3, apparently in sympathy with the some 700 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors who are on a trek from the Kootenays to Agassiz in the Fraser Valley. Agassiz is the site of a new federal prison where scores of convicted Freedomite terrorists are serving sentences.

ONLY WATER

Officials said that since Labor Day the youths, all aged 16 and 17 years, have only been drinking water.

Said one school official: "They're only looking for public sympathy."

There were no immediate indications if steps would be taken to force-feed the hunger strikers.

Suspect Nabbed In Wild Chase

NANAIMO — William Lorne Starr, Vancouver, appeared in Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts court Monday charged with theft of about $900 from the Marshall Wells store Saturday afternoon. He was remanded without plea one week.

Police said two men entered the store during the busy hours. One occupied the attention of clerk Sid Henley while the other looked over the safe.

Mr. Henley saw one of the men making off with a roll of bills.

Mr. Henley immediately set off in pursuit and was joined by John R. Pineau 16, Bob McLellan 17 and Ronald Schiebel 17.

After a wild chase down Terminal, up the cliff to Bastion, along Skinner and through an alley back onto Commercial, the man was finally nabbed by Mr. Henley in front of the Metropolitan Stores at Commercial and Bastion.

The roll of money was found in long grass on the side of Skinner Street.

Foresters Unhappy Come Rain or Shine

B.C. forest service officials the past few days sounded a lot like Okanagan fruit growers—nothing was right.

Fruit growers are hard put to find a single sound apple when the market is strong but up to their ears in a bumper crop when consumers are looking the other way.

RELIEF DRIPPING

Forest officials Friday were complaining of a high fire hazard in Vancouver Island woods and could see no relief in sight.

Yesterday, with relief dripping from the sky in drops the size of Okanagan apples, they were fretting about the backlog of slash which operators can't burn.

A wet fall and a wet spring would mean the slash would carry over into the 1963 fire season and present an added hazard. Slash fires start easily, travel fast and are hard to extinguish.

Although the official fire season continues until the end of October, suppression officials are already breathing easily and starting to think of next year.

Only latent hazard existing in B.C. yesterday after general rains for the previous 12 hours was in the Okanagan.

Forest officials said they expect rains to continue for the remainder of his week.

Pacific Tests Go On

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Monday night the United States will resume its nuclear test series in the atmosphere over the Pacific sometime after Sept. 22.

The announcement came in an AEC defence department statement saying the restricted area around the Johnston Island test site would be re-established effective Sept. 22.

There was no word from the commission on exactly when tests would be resumed.

But the AEC said "the tests will include a few high-altitude events and a few in which the devices will be dropped from an airplane."

U.S. Trade Plan, Canada's Exports Answer to Market

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Government sources here regard President Kennedy's trade program and Canada's drive for exports as the only real answer to British entry into the European Common Market.

Although Prime Minister Diefenbaker, on arrival in London for the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, talked of an "alternative" to British entry, sources here said Monday the government's hopes are pinned on Canada's own efforts to expand her trade and the effect of the American program if it passes Congress.

The Canadian program includes the dispatch of trade missions abroad at the rate of one every two weeks and conferences such as last week's industrial expansion meeting here to awaken Canadian businessmen forcefully to the need to compete in the world market on the basis of design, quality and price.

Trade Minister Hees regards this program as vital not only if Britain does enter the European Common Market but even if she decides not to do so. Competition for markets in either case is going to be increasingly severe.

OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK

Trade department officials are optimistic that President Kennedy's program will be acceptable to Congress in large part.

Under the president's program, the United States would negotiate with Common Market countries gradual elimination of United States and Common Market tariffs over a wide variety of goods which are mainly produced in these areas.

This program would also permit the gradual reduction of U.S. duties up to 50 per cent on other goods.

Mounties Watch Marchers

An officer said seven squad cars and 15 members of the RCMP Doukhobor squad are keeping a round-the-clock watch on the refugee-like band of 750 Freedomites.

MORE UNCERTAINTY

Two moves made Monday by leaders of the Freedomite cavalcade added to the uncertainty.

Two carloads of Freedomites headed for Agassiz in the Fraser Valley, apparently to arrange for accommodation for the main body near a Freedomite prison there.

They are due back Wednesday when the Sons say they will continue their 400-mile westward trek from the British Columbia Kootenays.

TO SCHOOL BOARD

RCMP said a delegation of Freedomites also asked police to make arrangements for their children to go to school in the Grand Forks area.

Police referred them to the school board.

Police found no evidence of arson in the ruins of a wooden highway bridge which went up in flames 13 miles east of here.

Doukhobors Not Welcome

AGASSIZ (CP) — A Sons of Freedom Doukhobor delegation was told Monday there is no accommodation, land or housing for them in this peaceful Fraser Valley village 80 miles east of Vancouver.

Seven men and five women came here as a delegation from approximately 750 Freedomites now stalled at Grand Forks, 250 miles east of Vancouver, on a march to Agassiz.

They asked if they could lease land for a camp site for their large group.

Mac Backing Down On Market Pledge?

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan, bidding for Commonwealtn understanding if not support, put the case Monday for British entry to the European Common Market.

His speech, on the opening day of a momentous Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, contained no new facts or trade assurances for Canada and some other member countries which have been close to Britain's Common Market negotiations at Brussels.

OTHER COUNTRIES

A conference communique said Macmillan put the case for joining the European Economic Community's six-nation trade group — "subject to satisfactor, safeguards for other Commonwealth countries."

From the Canadian government's viewpoint, this appears to be a less precise pledge than others made in the past which promised protection to "essential" or "vital" trade interests of Commonwealth members in the British market.

WILL GIVE VIEWS

For the next two days the Commonwealth leaders, starting with Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker, will tell Britain just how satisfactory they consider the safeguards worked out so far at Brussels.

Canadian officials were busy revising the text of Diefenbaker's speech today—now in its eighth draft—in the light of the case presented by Macmillan.

BASED ON SQUEEZE

It's expected Diefenbaker will base his argument on the squeeze facing Canada's $900,000,000-a-year export market in Britain from the trade terms as they shape up so far in Britain's uphill negotiations with the six EEC members at Brussels.

It seems likely he will also express the hope that these terms can be improved when Britain's chief Common Market negotiator, Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath, returns to the Brussels conference table in a month.

ALERNATIVE PLAN

The Canadian prime minister is not expected to deal today with a possible alternative plan for Commonwealth trade expansion should Britain decide to stay out of the Common Market.

Flag-Dipper Loses Bail Sent to Cell

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul A. Lapointe, 29, head of a group seeking a national flag for Canada, Monday was ordered to cells pending his trial on charges of pulling down a number of Union Jacks during the Queen Mother's visit last June.

Lapointe chose trial by jury at the opening of criminal assizes and Judge Maurice Cousineau ordered Lapointe to cells, although he had been free on bail until Monday.

It has been the practice in Montreal assizes court in recent years to hold persons choosing trial by jury.

"I'm going to the cells to defend liberty," shouted Lapointe as police led him away.

44 Die In Jet Crash

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A Strategic Air Command KC-135 jet tanker with 44 persons aboard crashed 20 miles northeast of here on Mount Kit Carson Monday. A U.S. Air Force spokesman said apparently there were no survivors.

Rescue and crash teams converged on the area where the wreckage was spread over a wide area.

The plane was reported missing on a flight from Ellsworth Air Force Base, S.D., to Fairchild Air Force Base near here. The air force said there were 40 military personnel and four crew members aboard, all members of the 28 Bomb Wing, Ellsworth.

Automation Invades Medicine

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—Doctors at the Mayo Clinic are using an electronic computer in a major trial of automation in medicine.

Some feel the idea will become widespread in a few years, with each patient given a routine analysis when he goes to his doctor.

ROUTINE ANALYSIS

Patients in seven of the clinic's 20 sections are given a long, brown envelope as they wait to see their doctors.

In it is the Minnesota Personality Inventory, a test developed at the University of Minnesota in 1941 and now in wide use.

Patients are told:

"This is an inventory of your personality. By filling it out, you will summarize the kind of person you are. This will help us solve your problem."

EASILY DONE

The questions — calling for true or false answers — are marked with a special pencil which triggers a computer when the test is fed through. Stored on the computer's magnetic tapes are many possible responses to the questions, and a system of analyzing the patient's particular pattern of responses.

SAMPLE QUESTIONS

Some of the questions:

"I enjoy reading newspaper articles on crime."

"I wake up most days feeling fresh and well rested."

"I work under tension."

"I loved my father."

ENTIRE PICTURE

No single answer will give the doctor a clue to the patient's personality. But the entire picture may show a person with a normal response, a person not given to emotional illnesses.

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Number one project of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in 1962-63 will be to promote amalgamation of the four municipalities of Greater Victoria, says the chamber's new president.

Following his swearing-in at the chamber's annual meeting yesterday, John Wallace said Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich "live off" Victoria, "but provide little toward its welfare."

PROPER CLIMATE

Only through amalgamation, said Mr. Wallace, can Greater Victoria get a proper economic climate for development of the area's business activity and the welfare of its people.

STREAMLINE WORK

The chamber would have to streamline and subordinate its work for other worthy aims—including the promotion of tourism—in order to be free to concentrate on amalgamation, Mr. Wallace said.

LAUNCHING STUDY

The chamber at present has a committee considering the best way of launching a study of amalgamation.

Mr. Wallace said in an interview following the meeting he thinks Greater Victoria will be lucky if it gets amalgamation within five years. "But we need it now."

NOT INTERESTED

Mr. Wallace said the chamber is "definitely not" interested in a metropolitan form of government for Greater Victoria—one with a single body overseeing various separate councils. "That would just be government on government."

The chamber wants a single council, he said.

PUBLIC OPINION

Mr. Wallace said the chamber would concentrate on trying to create a climate of public opinion favorable to amalgamation. It would assemble facts and figures — but mere facts and figures could be twisted and used by opponents of amalgamation.

FEAR REMOVED

Addressing chamber members, Mr. Wallace said fear of amalgamation in some quarters must be removed, and the spirit of competition among municipalities—to the detriment of the whole area—must be ended.

"We must start at this stage to act like a community and continue development under a long-range plan," Mr. Wallace said.

SUCCEEDS WALTERS

Mr. Wallace, general manager of Yarrows, succeeds A. E. Walters. The vice-president, who is traditionally intended to be next president, is lawyer E. E. Pearlman.

Why Not Cage Tourists For Their Protection?

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—Why not cage tourists at timber-cutting sites in a big truck or tractor for their own protection? In Florida, at one attraction, visitors are caged and monkeys run wild, a New York travel consultant told the Pacific Northwest Trade Association Monday.

"When I see logging trucks on the highways, I want to get into the forests and see the lumberjacks at work," Peter J. Celliers said. "I am told there is a danger for visitors, but there are ways around every obstacle if you don't just sit and stare at it."

Ottawa Eyes Cuba, Deeply Concerned

By JACK BEST

OTTAWA (CP)—Officials here are watching the Cuban situation with mounting anxiety.

Though Canada publicly has remained silent on the recent Communist arms buildup in the Caribbean island, diplomatic sources privately admit to being deeply concerned.

Reports reaching the Canadian government have tended to confirm U.S. estimates that the latest big flow of Soviet weapons to Cuba has been essentially defensive.

They also support the belief that Soviet military personnel in Cuba are technicians, not combat troops.

EXPLOSIVE ISSUE

Nevertheless, the Communist power buildup is seen as an explosive ingredient in hemispheric affairs.

So far, it has not caused any visible deterioration in Canadian-Cuban relations. Canada is one of the few countries in the Western Hemisphere which still have diplomatic ties with the Fidel Castro revolutionary government.

Canada also maintains trade relations with Cuba, though of late trade has fallen off drastically.

CANADA CRITICIZED

Canada has often been criticized in the U.S. for continuing to do business with Cuba — through it forbids the export of arms and strategic materials.

Evicted Town On the March

CITRUSDAL, South Africa (AP) — Six hundred persons ranging in age to 90 left their homes Monday, taking only what they could carry, and set off to march in a straggling column.

The 600 comprise the non-white community of Elandskloof, a former Dutch Reformed Church mission settlement.

Claiming they had been evicted, one said:

"We will go on walking until we find somewhere to live. We will walk to Cape Town (more than 100 miles away) if we have to."

The owner of Elandskloof, farmer P. J. Smit, refused to talk to reporters. But his wife denied the community had been evicted.

"It was their own choice," she said.

The church sold the farm two years ago. The community, which had been there for generations, believed its tenancy was protected by a title deed. But in 1960, the clause was annulled by the governor general.

U.S. Deeply Involved in Formosa Spy Plane Mission

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States probably is as deeply involved as Formosa in the dispatch of a U-2 spy plane over Communist China at a time when there is increasing curiosity in Washington whether the Chinese are earnestly endeavoring to produce an atomic arsenal.

While Chiang Kai-shek's government has quickly accepted full responsibility for the latest U-2, which the Reds said they knocked down by some "unconventional" means, the high-flying plane capable of cruising at heights of more than 70,000 feet is an American product requiring U.S. government approval before it can be exported.

* * *

Formosan and U.S. administrations say Formosa purchased two of the U-2 planes from the U.S. manufacturer in July, 1960, just two months after Francis Gary Powers' plane was discovered and knocked down over Russia, causing an international furore that shattered a summit conference.

* * *

At that time the U.S. pledged not to send any more planes over Russia, a pledge that was repeated when President Kennedy took office in January, 1961.

But what could be more convenient than to "sell" the aircraft to some friendly power, over which the U.S. could exercise a great deal of control and have this friendly power continue doing what the U.S. says it no longer is doing?

* * *

The U-2 plane, with its powerful cameras, proved a valuable and accurate spying instrument. It gave the U.S. a great deal of information about missile launchings and troop movements in Russia. Undoubtedly similar information about Communist China has been transmitted to the U.S. through Formosa.

* * *

Recently there has been some confusion in Washington as to whether China is actually building an atomic bomb and how soon it may be able to test and explode it. There have been a variety of official guesses, including a startling one by a high authority that was hurriedly scrubbed.

* * *

The speed with which associates of this authority attempted to wash away the "guess" that the Chinese may be able to explode such a bomb "in a few months" has opened the question of whether this authority was speaking from a private hunch or from highly secret reconnaissance information.

In any case, the Communists are likely to make the most of the new U-2 intrusion when the United Nations reassembles next week. On Sept. 4, after a U-2 appeared over Sakhalin Island north of Japan, Soviet Premier Khrushchev warned that if such penetrations are repeated, Russia would be compelled to take "appropriate retaliatory measures."
